

THE SOCIETY JOURNAL OF FLORIDA
EAST COAST, NASSAU, HAVANA

Would You Want To Administer Your Friend's Estate?

The most unkind thing you can do to a friend is to appoint him executor of your will. Regardless of his business ability, knowledge of tax laws and other qualifications, you are asking him to assume a responsibility which he had no part in creating and which, at best, is highly exacting and burdensome. Furthermore, you have no assurance that he will live or be available long enough to complete the administration of your estate in the manner expected.

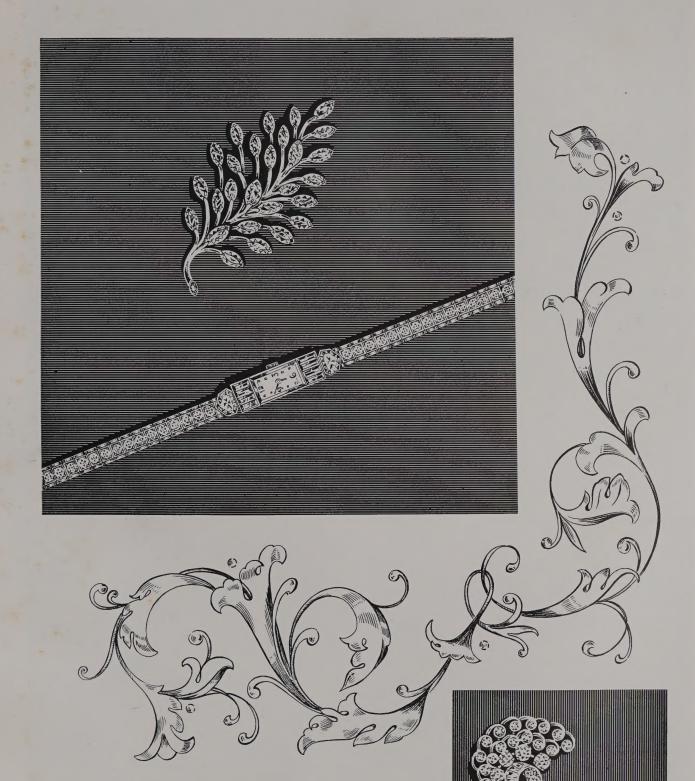

The logical step is to name a trust organization as executor, thereby insuring expert handling of your affairs without the hazard of an interrupted administration or the risk of a less competent person having to complete the job. The cost is moderate—no more than an individual would be allowed for the same service.

You are invited to come in any time and discuss with our Trust Officers your own estate problems. There is no charge or obligation and they will be glad to give you details as to costs, taxes and matters of a similar nature. Call, write or telephone 2-3611 for our booklet "Conserving Your Property at Low Cost."

Have you seen our Beautiful table linens?

Pure Irish linens, beautifully hand-embroidered linens, gay printed linens and American cottons. Mat sets, table cloth sets. As formal as dinner at 8 or as informal as breakfast on a sunny patio—you'll find them all just where you'd expect the widest choice — the finest quality . . . at PBM.

And, while you're looking at linens — you'll want to see our dreamy collection of boudoir accessories. Imported, hand embroidered percale sheets and cases as fine as the softest silk. Pedigreed American brands, including famous Kentucky Cottage Industries. Gay prints, soft pastels and, of course, white.

Yacht Harbor Estates

The recent decision of Emmett, Walter and Jerome Kelly residents of this area and owners of Yacht Harbor Estates to offer for sale for the first time and at public auction all of the lots in their 64 acre development located on Singer Island, Riviera Beach, Florida, will be received enthusiastically by prospective home owners, investment and realty interests.

The nationally known Joseph P. Day organization of New York through its affiliate the Joseph P. Day Florida Realty Corporation of Palm Beach, Miami and Clearwater, will conduct the auction sale of Yacht Harbor Estates in individual lots on February 16th, 1951, starting at 1:30 P.M. in the new Riviera Theatre, Riviera Beach, Florida. Stephen A. McDonald president of the latter corporation, well known in this area through his handling of the Widener Estate sale in Palm Beach and similar properties, will personally conduct the sale.

Singer Island, bounded by the Atlantic Ocean on the East and Lake Worth on the West, is immediately North of and across the inlet from Palm Beach. The State of Florida just completed a million dollar, four lane concrete bridge and causeway connecting the mainland portion of Riviera Beach with the balance of the town located on Singer Island and embracing this development. Debt free Riviera Beach is shown in the last government census to be Florida's second fastest growing community.

Yacht Harbor Estates has an Atlantic Ocean frontage of 1365 feet extending one-half mile West to beautiful Lake Worth. The beach is recognized as one of the finest on the Florida East Coast. The property to be offered comprises 120 lots zoned for private dwellings, duplex, apartments, hotels and clubs each in its exclusive area. The development has new improved streets and all of the usual municipal services such as water, electricity, telephone, fire, and police protection, garbage collection, as well as school bus service and regularly operated bus line service to the mainland portion of Riviera Beach, West Palm Beach, Palm Beach and Lake Worth. All improvements in the development are paid for and assessment free.

Besides containing many ocean and lake front lots, this development is unique in that it contains 12 beautiful homesites abutting and around the Yacht Basin which extends from Lake Worth and the intercoastal waterway into the center of the subdivision. This basin is 900 feet long and 300 feet wide and dredged to 14 feet in depth providing safe and land locked anchorage for yacht owners.

An indication of the unusual and rapid growth of this new island area is the fact that 77 brand new structures have been erected thereon consisting of private homes, apartments and hotels.

The owners have carefully restricted, planned, and zoned this development. One of the requirements as condition precedent to the building of any structures in Yacht Harbor Estates is the submission of plans and specifications thereof, for inspection and approval of the owners.

The Joseph P. Day Corp. have established an office on the development where brochures, plats and restrictions can be procured, or they can be obtained by addressing the Joseph P. Day Corp., box 859, Riviera Beach, Fla.

Studstill & Hollenbeck, Inc. of Palm Beach, West Palm Beach and Riviera Beach, are resident agents for the Joseph P. Day Florida Corp.

THE COLONY

ONE OF THE IMPORTANT SOCIAL EVENTS of the winter season, was the formal opening of the new Colony Terrace Club on February 1. A late supper club featuring superb French and American cuisine and sophisticated entertainment by June Nelson, well-known chanteuse.

Reminiscent of the smart supper clubs of Manhattan, it is the only night spot of its kind in Palm Beach and from ten at night until two in the morning, colonists find it an interesting rendezvous. A perfect setting for a bit of beverage and petite diner, with such rare piece de resistance as escargots, oysters Rockefeller, baked clams casino.

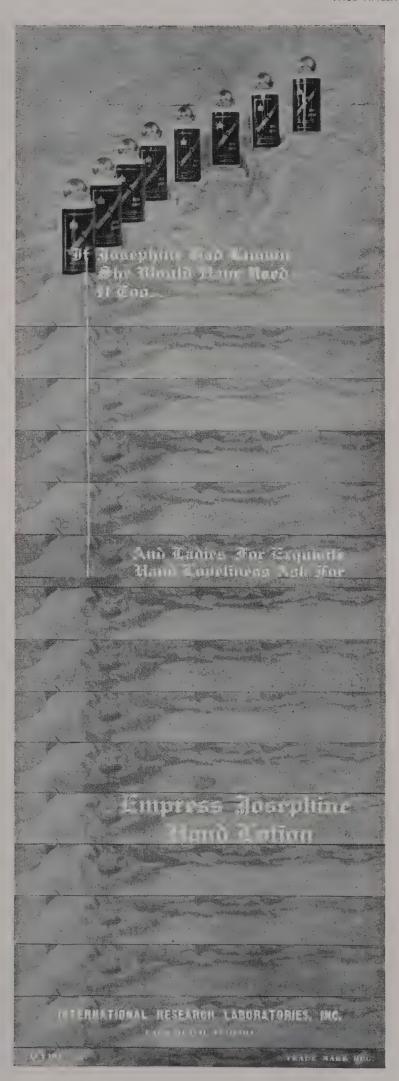

Another popular room at The Colony is the Cocktail Lounge... an intimate lounge with modern decor and colorful murals of old Florida. Entertaining here during the cocktail hour, Lou Shields at the piano, with impromptu programs based on requests of the patrons. Members of the cottage colony like to drop in here for a refreshing drink before dinner, for a nightcap at the end of the evening, or after a game of golf at the Club. In close proximity to the smart Worth Avenue shopping district, it is also a popular rendezvous after an afternoon of shop browsing.

The main dining room of The Colony is the setting for numerous luncheon and dinner parties. In modern decor with a deep green and white color theme, the appointments give the effect of a dining room in a lovely home rather than a hotel. Southern hospitality without frills, with accent on gracious service, the "hallmark" of this hostelry, which has the atmosphere of a smart club, inspired by the old southern manses. Much of this is due to the capable direction of Mr. Bernard Cooley, the manager, who spent seven years in the diplomatic service and managed a number of smart resort hotels in the East.

Among persons now in residence at The Colony or who spent recent holidays there: Mr. M. M. Geffen of New York, editor of "Omnibook"; Mr. and Mrs. Victor Babin, noted musicians who appeared in recital at the Society of the Four Arts; Mr. and Mrs. J. Patrick Lannan of Chicago; Mrs. Mil(Continued on Page 17)

Third Annual Dog Show

From East, west, north and south—the width and breadth of the country, the lords and ladies of dog-dom gathered in Palm Beach on Jan. 25 to compete for titles in the third annual show sponsored by the Palm Beach County Dog Fancier's Association, in cooperation with the Kiwanis Club of the Palm Beaches. Proceeds from the show which netted well over $800 will be contributed to the dental clinics which are supported in Palm Beach County by the Kiwanis Club for less-chanced youngsters.

Probably one of the most unfortunate days in the entire season, Jan. 25 was cold, rainy and over-cast—but that did not detract from the parade of bluebloods, and from the tiniest Chihuahua to the largest Great Dane, it was obviously no chore for the dogs to parade.

The Palm Beach show, an American Kennel Club event in cooperation with the local dog association was part of the Florida Circuit, managed by Moss and Mulvey, and which visited 10 larger communities in the state. The local show according to the superintendents, Edgar A. Moss and James E. Mulvey, was the largest with the exception of Miami, and the dogs shown here compared easily according to veteran of the dog ring, Judge Edward D. McQuown, with those entered in the big shows—Morris & Essex, and the Westminster.

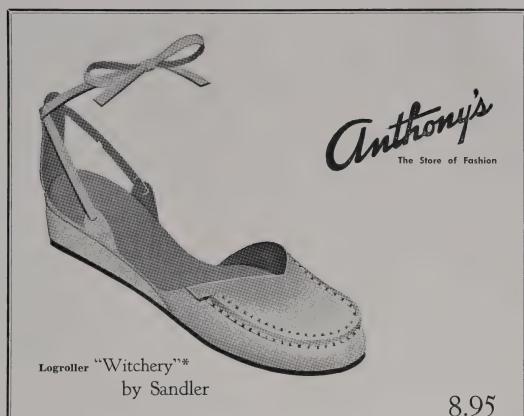

Started three years ago in the interest of promoting better dogs in Palm Beach County, local cooperation has been whole-hearted and it is hoped the shows may become a tradition.

Including local entries, dogs entered in obedience and children's handling classes and paraded in the poodle parade, more than a hundred residents of the Palm Beaches participated.

Outstanding AKC judges selected to judge the event included: Mrs. Maude D. Smith, Malvern, Pa.; Mr. Alfred Mitchell, Philadelphia, Pa.; Mrs. Charlotte Thornton, Miami, Fla.; Mr. E. D. McQuown, Dayton, Ohio; Mrs. Warner S. Hays, New York, and Mr. Horace Thomas, West Palm Beach.

Chairman of the show committee was Mr. Herbert Gibson assisted by James Pierce, Eugene Hults, Horace Thomas, Mrs. Harry Wilson, and Mrs. J. D. Carlton.

Cottage Colony Society Life

As the season approaches its scintillating height, more and more colonists and visitors are arriving to add verve to the season. In keeping with the austerity of the times, Palm Beach entertaining is quiet, with small parties at home and intimate groups for dinner. Although restrained nevertheless, any gathering held in the romantic isle of dreams is gala, whether it be a festive cocktail party or a dinner for four, followed by canasta.

Mrs. Paul Moore, prominent winter colonist who with Mr. Moore spends each season at "Collado Hueco" is the first woman to be elected a director of the Episcopal Foundation. The announcement was made by the Rt. Rev. Henry Knox Sherrill, presiding Bishop of the Episcopal Church, and chairman of the board of the foundation.

A member of the Grace Church, Madison, N. J., and a governor of the Council for Clinical Training, Inc., Mrs. Moore is active in many cultural fields.

The Episcopal Church Foundation is an organization of laymen, aiming to strengthen the work of the Episcopal Church by obtaining gifts and bequests for special projects not covered by the annual budget of the church.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack W. Salisbury entertained a group of friends for cocktails at their home on Sea Breeze Avenue in compliment to Maj-Gen. and Mrs. John N. Greely who were here from Washington. For Andre Maurois, author and lecturer who addressed members of the Four Arts Society, Maj-Gen. and Mrs. Ralph K. Robertson were hosts at a luncheon at "Casa Della Porta," where they had as houseguests Mr. Robert Golet of Newport, and Miss Sophie Mohl.

Countess Dorelis entertained friends for dinner at her home on Adam Road, and others having friends in for dinner, followed by cards, were Mrs. Alva Benjamin See, who entertained at her lake front villa, and Mrs. Middleton O'Malley-Keyes, who gave a dinner at her place on Brazilian Avenue.

Mrs. Alexander Dallas Bache Pratt was hostess to friends at a luncheon at "Villa Sonia," her home on the lake front. Afterward bridge and canasta were played.

Mr. William P. Kenny and his daughter, Miss Mary Kenny, gave a luncheon at their ocean front home. Guests included: Mr. and Mrs. John H. Perry, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Collings, Mrs. Eugene Meenan and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas A. Kenny.

For his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Coxe Yarnall and his daughter, Mrs. Arthur E. Newbold Jr. who came from Philadelphia, Mr. Charlton Yarnall gave a dinner at his home on El Brillo Way. Mr. and Mrs. Blaine Webb gave a cocktail party at their home on South County Road for a group of colonists. To observe the wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Archibald C. Rayner, Mr. and Mrs. George H. Tilton were hosts to a group of friends for cocktails at their home on Worth Avenue.

Mrs. Peyton J. Van Rennselaer entertained at a tea and cocktail party at "Casa Rosada del Lago," her lakefront villa. Sharing honors were her houseguests, Mr. and Mrs. Giovanni Bagarotti and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Laidlaw Williams of of Convent, N. J. and Palm Beach, who was recently named a director of the Episcopal Church Foundation. Mrs. Moore is the first woman to be elected a director. She and Mr. Moore are now at "Collado Hueco," their ocean front villa.

New York, who were visiting Mrs. Williams sister, Mrs. John B. Hayward and Mr. Hayward.

The Hon. Mrs. Frederick E. Guest and Miss M. Louise Wood were at the tea table.

Miss Carolyn Trippe, who this year is occupying an apartment on Worth Avenue, gave a small dinner there for a few friends. Mrs. Leland Eggleston Cofer gave a dinner at her Worth Avenue apartment in farewell to her cousin, Countess Koutouzow Tolstoy of Paris.

For her guests, Mr. and Mrs. Percy Brooksbank of Santa Barbara, Mrs. Louis D. Beaumont entertained with a dinner at "Palmeiral." The Claude K. Boettchers were hosts to 40 friends at dinner at "Southwood."

Mrs. Axel Jonsson had friends for dinner to entertain her houseguests, Mr. and Mrs. S. Emlen Randolph of Philadelphia. Mrs. Herbert J. Adair gave a small dinner at her home on Sanford Avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. David Graham Legget 3d had friends for dinner at their home on El Brillo Way. Guests were: Mr. and Mrs. King Atkins, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Lee, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hickey, Mrs. Dwight C. Paul and Mr. Thomas K. O'Brien.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard L. Ray now in residence at 354 Brazilian Ave., are among those Palm Beachers who have purchased acreage in the "back country," — the gentleman farming district in the vicinity of Congress Ave., and will build a home there as soon as restrictions on materials are lifted.

Arriving early this month was the Ambassador from Norway and Mme. Munthe de Morgenstierne who came from Washington to be guests of Mr. and Mrs. Lars Christenson at their Everglades Club aaprtment. February 20 the Norwegian ambassador is to speak before the committee of 100 at Miami Beach, afterward returning here to resume his Palm Beach holiday. A number of dinners and receptions were given in the capitol honoring the popular couple. Mrs. Edgar W. Leonard, who was a member of Col. and Mme. Jacques Balsan's houseparty, was the guest for several days of Mr. and Mrs. Paulding Fosdick at their home on Jungle Road. Of much interest here was the announcement of the engagement of Miss Charlotte Virginia Gates, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Emerson H. Gates of 3500 North Flagler Drive and Rock Island, Ill., to Mr. George C. Dempsey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald H. Dempsey of 237 El Bravo Way and Naragansett, R. I. The wedding is planned for the spring.

Miss Gates attended the Rosarian Academy and was graduated in 1944 from the Graham-Eckes School. She is an alumnus of Stephens College and was graduated from Rollins College in 1948.

Preparing at Middlesex at Concord, Mass., Mr. Dempsey was graduated from the Bolles School at Jacksonville. He studied for two years at the Texas Agricultural Institute at Kingsville, Texas. He is now associated with his father in ranching at Okeechobee County.

An early arrival this month was Mrs. A. Felix duPont who came from New York to be at her home on the boulevard. She was accompanied by Mrs. Arthur Shettle of Pocomoke, Md. Mrs. Sidney Scott of Wilmington, is also to come down for a holiday.

Mrs. H. Mercer Walker, who was absent from the Palm Beach scene last year, came from New York to be at "Southview," her home in El Vedado Lane for the season. Mrs. William F. Ladd arrived late in January to be at her Worth Avenue home for the season.

Mrs. Maitland Alexander of Pittsburgh, came down to be the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Drexel Paul at their home in Breakers Row. Coming from Westbury, L. I. where they were for the summer and autumn were Mr. and Mrs. Edward F. Hutton who are now at "Four Winds," their boulevard estate.

Count d'Avenas of Paris, was the houseguest of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ware at their home at Hobe Sound. Mr. Orson D. Munn of Manhattan, was the guest of his sister, Mrs. I. Sheldon Tilney and Mr. Tilney at their home on Pendleton Avenue.

Mrs. Horace E. Dodge of Grosse Pointe, came to open "Playa Rienta," her villa on the North Ocean Boulevard. Mrs. Charles F. Spalding of Greenwich, Conn., arrived in early February to be the guest of her mother-in-law, Mrs. Vaughan C. Spaulding at the latter's home on Primavera Way. Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Prosser of Southampton, who earlier in the season were houseguests of Mr. and Mrs. Josef

F. A. Comstedt and Mr. and Mrs. D. Joseph Donovan, have taken the Raymond C. Alley house on King's Road. Dr. and Mrs. John Stewart Tanner, having sold "Tanalani" are now occupying "Sandpiper House."

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph L. Werner of Clayton, Mo., have opened their home on El Brillo Way. A number of house-guests will join them during the season. Mr. and Mrs. Jack, F. Chrysler were early February arrivals from New York, and are occupying the Eugene duPont villa on South Ocean Boulevard. Mrs. Benedict H. Hanson is at "By-the-Waters" where she has entertained with a series of small dinners.

This season the Everglades Club has been the setting for many smart gatherings. Attracting large groups are the weekly Tombola Luncheons and the informal buffet dinner dances which are an innovation this year on the Golf Terrace. The Tuesday and Saturday dinner dances are also creating much interest, as are the Vaudeville Dinners, a highlight of Thursdays.

Mrs. Frank Osgood Butler gave a dinner at the club having as guests: Mr. and Mrs. Harold Church Paull, Mr. and Mrs. Russell McGrath, Mr. and Mrs. C. Markham Langham, Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Baehr, Mr. and Mrs. Sydney King Russell, Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Cooley, Mr. and Mrs. F. Jerome McNulty, Mr. and Mrs. H. Winfield Chapin, Cmdr. and Mrs. A. Winfield Chapin, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Verne Ferguson, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Cutter, Mr. and Mrs. C. Milton Cook, Mrs. Raymond Royce Kent, Mrs. Nadja Buckley, Mrs. Dolina MacKenzie, Mr. Charles Gibson, Cmdr. Dwight C. Paul, Capt. Luigi Signorini and Mr. R. B. D. Wilson Evans.

Mrs. Herbert J. Adair entertained for her houseguests, Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Armstrong of Miami Beach, and Mr. Dion Karagulion of Paris. Others in the party were: Secretary of Commerce and Mrs. Charles Sawyer, Mr. and Mrs. Frank G. Ahern, Mr. and Mrs. Morton H. Fetterolf and Mr. and Mrs. John McShane of Philadelphia.

Mrs. Ola McCaffrey Miller was hostess at a dinner for Mrs. Mollie Cullum of Miami Beach. Others in the party were: Mr. and Mrs. Homer Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Neal O. Miller, Mrs. Muriel Paterson, Mr. J. Kenneth Williamson, Mr. Alfred V. Leaman and Mr. Edward H. Kendall.

New York Letter

Dear Dora:

Have you heard about Peggy Thaw, who recently severed her marriage to Lawrence Copley Thaw with a Virgin Island divorce? The glamorous Peggy is rumored to be the next wife of Cecil Singer, whose late father, well known in Palm Beach, began the Everglades Club years ago. The only hitch at present is the fact that Cecil has a wife, Elizabeth Francis, whom he married only a short time ago. She was the former Marchesa Lotaringhi Della Stuff.

Society's fun loving Princess Dorothy di Frasso Dentice is now at Uruguay where she is houseguesting it with Alberto Dodero. The irrepressible sister of Palm Beach's Bert Taylor has been living in Rome for the past few years, but a visit to your resort has been rumored.

Lovely Pamela Curran, whom you remember came to Palm Beach two years ago and caused quite a stir in stag circles, is nightly seen with David Gimbel of the department store millions. The glamorous daughter of Mrs. Frank M. Gould has been mystifying New York society since her debut, by the number of beaux she has. Every one is wondering when Pam will really settle down, and make up her mind about the man of the moment.

And speaking of rumors, Eleanor Walsh, a member of the Spreckles sugar family, is expected to marry Charles De Limur. Charles you know, gave up his title of Count when he became an American citizen. Friends of Arline Judge Ruggles Topping Adams Ryan Topping Ross are wondering who the seventh spouse will be. Incidentally Arline broke her foot recently while sledding with her son. The same injury happened last year.

Barbara Hutton Troubetsky, who is resting in Arizona, is trying desperately to shed her prince. But difficulties are prevailing. Barbara will have to settle $700,000 on Igor in order to obtain a severance. The original price was rumored to be $3,000,000, which people say is going just a little too far

I told you in my last letter that Alicia Baker and Count Jan Bonde were through. Now it seems the couple has resumed their romance, and all is well. Sylvia Woolworth, whose father is the Lancaster, Pa. industrialist, will marry Prentice Talmage Jr. March 31. The merger will unite two socially prominent families, as Prentice's forebearers are well known at Cedarhurst, L. I.

Leonard Thomas, son of the late Michael Strange and his other half have split. Leonard, a sober fellow, just can't take the squabbles any longer that his wife has been having with just anyone who comes along.

Did friends write you the news of Sarah Churchill and husband Tony Beauchamps? Driving to Southampton where they were to be guests of Evan Frankel, the producer, they lost themselves for two hours, were hauled in by the law for speeding, had two tire blowouts, and to boot, all pictures Tony made that day were spoiled by camera trouble.

Tonight, February 13, tip top Gotham society will attend the gala premier of the film, "Of Men and Music" which is being produced by 20th Century-Fox. Proceeds from the premier will go to the Hospitalized Veterans Music Service. The ever popular Mrs. Lytle Hull is president of the organization, and is chairman of the benefit committee. Other members include: Mrs. John Sims Kelley, Mrs. John Astor, the Duchess of Windsor, Mrs. Diane Eristavi and Mrs. Randall Creel.

Any day now friends expect an announcement from Barbara Field, who was recently divorced from Julian Field, the advertising executive, and Lou Suritz, former husband of model Bijou Barrington.

Have been wondering what happened to Walter Brooks and his bride, the former Mary Rogers, daughter of the late Will Rogers. But friends I ran into at El Morocco the other night informed me Walter and Mary were at Palm Beach where they are guests of his sister, Louise Tennent. The late Mrs. Stotesbury you know, was the grandmother of Walter and Louise. Louise at one time was married to William Ross Howard 3d, now the husband of Dorothy Lamour of the films.

Have heard nothing of Mona Williams' doings, have you? Marvelous Mona, always so much in the public eye, seems to have slipped into oblivion.

I ran into Ali Mackintosh just before he left for Nassau where he plans to spend the winter. The popular Capt. Mackintosh has never looked better and gossip is now that he and the former Eva Stewart will merge before the season ends. I understand Ellie Townsend, whom Ali squired around for sometime, is now in Palm Beach, and people say there is hope for a reconciliation between she and her former husband, Ed Townsend.

At the Stork Club, I saw the Eric Loders, and when asked their plans, said that a southern visit would probably not be made this year. Also at the Stork were the young marrieds Martha and Charles Bartlett. Charles is the son of the Val Bartletts of Hobe Sound and Amagansett, L. I. His brother, David, was married last year to dashing Patsy Pulitzer, daughter of the very socially smart "Tony" Pulitzer. Patsy and David are living at Baltimore, and report that it couldn't be more fun. Occasionally they come to New York, where all their friends look forward to seeing them.

All for now, Dora. Let me know the news of Palm Beach, and soon again I'll write you the gossip of Gotham.

Love,

JOAN

Native longhorns, part Brahmans, grazing amid peace and plenty.

Twenty miles west of the Bath and Tennis Club, the Palm Beach scene loses all of its luxurious setting. Spanish villas, swimming pools and other insignia of opulent living have vanished, for there is the rugged sandy loam country of Palm Beach County, the source of a flourishing beef cattle industry.

Stock farms dot the flat lowlands, one of which is the Lazy F. Ranch operated by Paul L. Fentress, who personally manages his 7,300 acres and with it, the constantly changing herds of steer calves and steers, eventually destined for the market.

It is a matter of regret that Mr. Fentress cannot be described as wearing a broad-brim Stetson, riding a gaily caparisoned horse on a brass ornamented McClellan saddle, in the Gene Autry manner.

Instead, he dons plain, every day work clothes as he leaves his Palm Beach residence in the early morning hours of the day and drives the twenty-odd miles to his ranch. There he changes transportation to a well worn jeep that sloshes over irrigation ditches, plunges through brush and charges into feeding herds with an abandon that a novice sitting beside him, may find disconcerting at times.

Like his father, Calvin Fentress, the master of the Lazy F. is a Princeton graduate and well prepared in the science and technique of cattle raising. In 1941 he owned a small farm in Illinois near Chicago where the family makes its home. Here he obtained the preliminary training in the practical side. This work, however, was interrupted by World War II, during which he served for three and a half years in the United States Navy. It was in 1945 that Mr. Fentress came to Florida, where he was no stranger, and made the plunge into cattle feeding in a big way.

Unlike most other vocations, the cattle raiser should have "an understanding of almost everything." He must know genetics, genes, hybrid breeding, a full knowledge of horticulture and chemistry.

Regardless of the breed of animals fed, the herds must be kept moving to market and replenished if the establishment is to be maintained on a profitably balanced basis.

Local conditions and consumer demands determine the class of beef steers that are to be bought and sold. In recent years packers have enlarged and improved their plants within the convenient reach of Florida producers. Auction sales are held at strategic points. These, coupled with better highways, put the dealers in close touch with the market, hence they have the choice of marketing whether at home over the scales, at auction or at packing plants.

Buying trips must be often made by Mr. Fentress and it is estimated he travels about 40,000 miles each year, all within a comparative range of a few hundred miles—the reason being that purchases of calves from nearby breeders minimizes the hazards of long distance shipping and the expense involved.

Beef cattle or calves are bought at an average age of a year to a year and one half, weighing from 400 to 600 pounds. Conditioning requires three months and upward depending upon breed, weather, food absorption and "personality" of the animals. The weight increase should be one pound or more a day, hence one learns on visiting the Lazy F. Ranch that much attention is given to grazing management, water control and the types of herbage. This is reflected in the grasses which normally is the cheapest feed for beef cattle and hence pasture is the mainstay of the cattle raising industry.

During recent years there has been a tremendous increase in the use of citrus by-products for feeding. This in-

Irrigation ditches and dike that distribute precious water to acres of sun drenched

Reference must be made to blood lines as evidenced by the successful cross breeding of Brahman with British stock.

There are said to be 30 types of the Brahman breed which, besides vigor to withstand insects, parasites and the Florida heat, has been kindly treated by nature by being provided with a valuable set of sweat glands that absorbs perspiration. These glands are reproduced in the cross-bred progeny, the result being resistance that enables the steers to feed without discomfort the year round, regardless of weather and without retarding the fattening processes. From results available it has been stated that to obtain the maximum of Brahman ruggedness, one-fourth to three-eighths of Brahman blood is the most desirable proportion.

Florida is now thirteenth in the list of beef cattle producing States and Mr. Fentress is of the belief that under normal conditions Florida within the next ten years should be among the first five. Commissioner of Agriculture Nathan Mayo recently said: "I predict Florida will be eventually the feeding ground for cattle of the Southeast. We are now producing the corn, we have the blackstrap molasses, citrus pulp and soy beans. The gross income from cattle in 1939 was $3,589,000. In 1949 it was $22,300,000."

Ranchers are coming to Florida and the State has prospered as have few other parts of the country. That is the opinion of many who are going into the cattle business.

Prospective ranchers need a stout heart, as witness the experience of Mr. Fentress in 1947 when the year's rainfall was a tremendous 110 inches as against a normal 55 inches. This excess knocked out dykes, washed out the pumping station with resulting waist deep water at the cow pens.

Today the largest cow pens average 300 acres and the smallest 150 and they are so constructed with a series of lanes at Lazy F. Ranch that four men can handle 1000 head a day. Yes, Florida is destined to become one of the great beef producing States and with a flood control project that will cost the Federal Government two hundred and eight million dollars (the State pays 15 per cent), only a devastating international catastrophe can prevent unprecedented prosperity.

Resort Sports Reach Halfway Point

The 1951 season has reached the half-way point and only three of the major golf tournaments remain to be contested, including the Everglades Club's important Mixed Foursomes Invitational scheduled for Feb. 12-16. The South Florida for men at the Palm Beach Golf Club comes on March 5-9, and the gigantic Latham R. Reed Amateur-Pro event at the Seminole Club is slated for March 12-14.

All three of the season's first half golf tournaments—the Lake Worth Championship for men, the Winter Golf League of Advertising Interests meet, and the Women's Championship of Palm Beach, that attracts most of the nation's leading feminine stars—were played on the Breakers course. Robert Sweeny of Palm Beach and the Seminole Club, won the Lake Worth, beating W. A. Pagan of West Palm Beach in the finals.

Walter B. Pedersen, president of the Pedersen Sales Co. of Wilton, Conn., won the Advertisers handicap tournament, beating John Cushman of Palm Beach, a three-time winner of the event, in the finals. Pedersen, earlier in the tournament, eliminated Robert Lansdell, the 1949 and 1950 champion from Hackensack, N. J. Feminine honors in the meet went to Mrs. Frank Van Ness, Bronxville, N. Y., and Mrs. Farleigh Dickinson. Mrs. Van Ness' 367 was low gross for the 72 holes, and Mrs. Dickinson had low net of 311. Mrs. John E. McAuliffe, an Everglades Club member, won the prize for the best aggregate score of 44 for the three par-3 holes in four rounds.

Among the teams entered for the Everglades Mixed Foursome were: Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Adair, Pine Valley, N. J.; Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Ewen, Indian Hill, Ill.; Mr. and Mrs. Earl A. Ross, Everglades; Miss Mary Agnes Wall, Menominee, Mich., and O. F. Woodward III, Everglades; Mr. and Mrs. John Small, Everglades; Mr. and Mrs. Hal C. Rich, Everglades; Janet C. Duckworth, Bronxville, N. Y., and E. Tinsley Halter, Everglades; Miss Judy Baker, Shawnee, Ohio, and J. Woolworth Donahue, Everglades; Mrs. Carl Ulrich and J. M. Barnhart, Siwaney; Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Craigmyle, Everglades, and Mr. and Mrs. John C. Hooker, Everglades.

Most outstanding feat of the first half of the season was the record breaking golf Professional Claude Harmon shot on his home Seminole Club course. Claude, for years a top ranking player, covered the second nine holes of the tough layout in just 29 strokes, topping the 30 he had several years ago when he went around the 18 holes in a record 60. This time he was out in 33 for a 62 round. The former Masters champion had seven consecutive birdies, starting with the 11th hole. On the front side he bogeyed two holes—four and eight—but he birdied five of the remaining seven. Playing in the same foursome with Harmon, Theodore Bassett of New York City, and Edward B. McLean of Palm Beach, Robert Sweeny turned in a card of 67. He was one under par on the front side and four under on the second nine.

Palm Beach captured a share of the South Florida Tennis Championships laurels when Mrs. Edith Hasler teamed with Hal Burrows of Charlottesville, Va., to win the mixed doubles crown. They defeated another Palm Beach girl, Nancy Morrison, and Bob Terry, also of the resort, in the finals, 7-5, 6-1.

A recent tombstone golf tournament at the Seminole Club was won by Mrs. Robert R. Young and Edward B. Mc-Lean. Using 48 handicap strokes, they got within 150 yards of the 11th hole. Mr. and Mrs. John G. Searle placed second, 12 feet from the 10th cup in 50 strokes; Mr. and Mrs. Ogden Phipps had 48 strokes and finished 27 feet from No. 10; and in fourth place were Mr. and Mrs. Kimball Salisbury. They had 44 strokes and were 45 feet from No. 10. Finishing on the 10th fairway were: Mrs. V. C. Spalding and W. Martin, 46; Mr. and Mrs. Philip R. Turnbull, 50; Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Alger, 48; Mrs. Homer Smith and Anthony Wilson, 48; Countess Dorelis and Jack Cals, 50. In the ninth cup were: Mrs. Earl E. T. Smith and O. K. Allen in 50 strokes, and Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Simonds, who had 50 strokes. On the ninth fairway were: Mrs. F. E. Wilhelm and Russell Kelly, 46; Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Pratt, 47; Mr. and Mrs. Seymour Wheeler, 47, and Mrs. E. B. McLean and Robert R. Young, 50.

The 1951 Seniors title of the Old Guard Society was won by Paul Walker of Chicago, with a gross of 79. The handicap winner was William B. Langford, also of Chicago. He had 80-10—70. Gilbert Brewer, Burlington, Vt., had low net for the first nine, and J. C. Roraback, Cannon, Conn., had low net for the second nine holes.

A Palm Beach man, Jerome F. McNulty, saw his American Glory win the Palm Beach Handicap and $17,000 at Hialeah. It was the second victory of the day for the former district attorney of New York. Palm Beach Hotel

The Palm Beach Hotel began a weekly series of golf, fishing and dancing tournaments January the 31st. The competitions are open only to guests of the hotel and will commence Thursdays and conclude the following Wednesdays. Attractive trophies shown on this page will be awarded to the winners.

Guests participating in the fishing contest must have their catches certified by either their boat captain or the dockmaser.

Special trophies will also be awarded to guests who came up with the largest sailfish catch of the season. One trophy will go to the fisherman who caught the longest sail, and one will be awarded for the greatest number of sails caught. Captain or dockmaster certifications will qualify Palm Beach Hotel patrons for these awards.

Golf competitions are held weekly at the West Palm Beach Country Club. They are conducted under the U. S. Army Handicap System which was devised during the war. This system allows beginners and good players to compete on a fair basis, and also permits newcomers to join at any time during the week. Thursday, the second of this month, was Palm Beach Hotel Night at the Palm Beach Kennel Club. Of special interest to the guests of the hotel was the final race of the evening which was dedicated to the hotel and named the Palm Beach Hotel Handicap. The owner of the winning dog was presented a floral trophy by the Palm Beach Hotel.

One of last month's outstanding shows starred the nationally famous comedian Jack Carter. Jack who was on stage for almost one hour, is perhaps best known as the star of the Jack Carter Show which is the first half of the Saturday Night Review," the two-and-one-half hour program which is rapidly forging to the front as the country's premiere video variety show. Prior to this, Jack was the original star and emcee on another TV show, "Cavalcade of Stars."

Although television was the means by which Jack climbed to the top, he was well on his way as a Broadway musical comedy and night club star before that. After coming out of the Army, Jack began to build his reputation as the star of the Broadway hit "Call Me Mister." Other indications of future greatness had been his fling in the movies, a stint as Fred Allen's guest star followed by appearances at leading vaudeville theatres and cafes. He got his first important break in television when he stepped in as a substitute for Milton Berle on the Texaco Star Theatre. His excellent job on this tough spot won him immediate attention and he replaced Berle on subsequent occasions.

Jack Carter proved to the Palm Beach Hotel audience his well-known versatility—his ability to sing, to dance, to clown around, to do monologues and impersonations. Added to this is his extreme youth—he is still in his twenties—his breezy style and attractive appearance.

Perfect companions for the "baretop" bodices of the current mode. Also, ear clips merging glittering diamonds with cultured pearls in several unique designs.

PRISMATIC MAKE-UP: The smart Anatole Robbins "prismatic make-up," which is making conversation all over the country, was introduced to Palm Beach at the Everglades Pharmacy this season. Originated by Anatole Robbins of Hollywood, Calif., a color expert, it "highlights women's natural beauty." It is easy to apply, lasting and gives a natural look.

ENTIRELY OF BAGUETTES: The exquisite diamond necklace, noted at Marcus & Company of New York and Palm Beach. A double strand necklace, which follows the contours of the throat, beautiful stones, set in platinum. Cultured pearls are featured in this smart shop; various weights and sizes, in single strand necklaces.

RARE ANTIQUES: With a heritage of beauty, are available at Plummer's, noted for outstanding china and glass for many years. Among the many items noted: pair of Bristol vaseline-yellow covered vases; Royal Crown Derby English bone china, with embossed pattern; a Sevres cup and saucer in beautiful hand-painted scenic panels; early Chinese spoon tray DAKS: The English style trousers in new resort color tones, teamed with the smart Dozi sports shirts, are exploited by F. R. Tripler & Co. of New York, for Palm Beach wear. Their new sports coats of woven silk are also creating interesting conversation . . . also the bright-colored versions in linen which accompany the honeycomb doeskin trouzers.

TARTAN PLAID: Lining is effectively used for the new "Station Wagon" great coat, designed by Bonnie Cashin for Adler & Adler and available at Norman's. An all-weather affair of treated poplin with "pocketbook" pocket. Their collection of silk prints and Moygashel linens is also newsworthy; smart fabrics, beautifully styled and detailed.

SUITED FOR THE RESORT: In chic stylings of suede, tiesilk, shantung, fine woolens . . . distinctive suits for north or south and designed by Sport & Travel. Their classic casual dresses are also popular in Palm Beach; featuring fine fabrics and workmanship.

GLITTER AND DAZZLE: Were never more important than they are this season! With clothes going more and more feminine, jewelry becomes ultra-important and L. Barton Brookov, in the Palm Beach Hotel, has interesting interpretations in diamonds. Simple and complicated necklaces, earrings, bracelets of rare beauty.

SWEATERS ARE IMPORTANT: This season and doubly so, when you knit them yourself. The Evelyn Curtis shop is the place to go for all of the equipment, from the latest ideas in yarns to needles, patterns and even instructions in knitting, if you need them.

EARRINGS ARE STYLE NEWS: Ever since the Christian Dior models appeared wearing chignons, accented with dazzling ear clips. Milton Fuller has a smart collection in diamonds . . . gold, unadorned or dramatized with glistening jewels. Perfect accents for resort day or night clothes!

ARE YOU AN AMATEUR PHOTOGRAPHER? Miller & Wallace have all the needed equipment from cameras, film, projectors and the like, to custom photo finishing services. All the leading brands of cameras and kodaks, for both the professional and the amateur. Picture taking is an interesting hobby!

FOR YOUR COCKTAIL PARTY: Whether your choice is champagne or complicated cocktails, Scotti, noted for fine wines and liquors, has all the answers. This is a good place to select beverages to enhance your special dinner parties!

GO DOWN TO THE SEA: In Ladd's good looking beach and cabana ensembles, with striking nautical accessories, featuring topnotch designers. Among the outstanding items noted recently: Reversible terry cape (lined with pastel cotton); Shortie terry coats with hoods, for chilly days at the beach.

FOR THE SARTORIALLY-CONSCIOUS GOLFER: Chambray two-piecers by McMullen, styled with solid color skirt and action-shirt in gay harmonizing plaids. In a casual mood. Also at Anthony's . . . the navy pique by Frances Sider; sunback dress with large seraph-like stole, both smartly trimmed with white soutache braid.

OVER 4,001 ITEMS: Are included in the extensive stock at the Charles E. Soll store . . . the most complete general store in Palm Beach. Glamourizing hardware displays, modern decor and displays. Chimes announce the customers to this fabulous place!

CRAFTS FROM EVERYWHERE: In the world, are available at the new Worldcarft shop on Worth Avenue. Each week, a special country is featured . . . from the darkest corners of the Congo to the Seminole Indians of Florida!

OCCASIONAL PIECES: To enhance your villa or apartment, are in abundance at Worrell's; chairs, tables, lamps, desks. They are outstanding interior decorators and are equipped to bring your furnishings and decorating up-to-date, or make them delightfully period style.

PEARLS ARE IMPORTANT: Pearls were never more important in the style scene than they are this season. Marvella's new designs, many of which look museum-inspired, are really something to write about. Chokers and dog collars; complicated necklaces featuring pearls of different sizes and shapes. Ideal resort accessories.

BUILT-IN BRA: Herman's of Key West and Palm Beach, have a smart collection of custom-made resort clothes, featuring built-in bras; thus eliminating that item from the wardrobe. They also feature fine fabrics in all of their clothes, both imported and domestic; a collection of batiks.

Beach Antiques on Royal Palm Way. Whether it is an antique, decorative accessory of some sort, bit of old silver, bronze figurine, porcelain piece . . . you are bound to find something to your liking. Grand browsing for the collector!

Looking forward to spring! This beige and white checked wool suit, combined with solid beige, in a smartly simple outfit by Nettie Rosenstein. The dolman-sleeved jacket flares slightly over the slim skirt, which is tucked down the center and sides. Note the clever pocketed-stole. Available in Palm Beach at the Mme. Mogabgab salon.

Fabric and style interest share honors equally in this pure silk Paisley print by Izod of London and included in the resort collection at Norman's. Note the dolman sleeves, smart collar and clever pocket treatment. Black belt and gloves for color contrast!

White ribbon-lace is the medium for this lovely one-piece dress, with boat neckline, brief sleeves and six-gored skirt. This unique fabric, stitched in gold thread, is a perfect foil for colorful accessories. From the resort collection of Beatrice Morgan, Worth Avenue.

Whitehall

This is the second installment of a story concerning the life of Henry M. Flagler who built and furnished Whitehall in 1902.

The year 1866 marked a great era in the expansion of American industry, and in Cleveland, Ohio, where John D. Rockefeller, 25 years old, and Henry M. Flager, 36, both occupied offices in the Sexton Building, a friendship and partnership was in the making that was to last throughout their lives, to say nothing of twin fortunes that would one day identify the two as foremost among sons of the "land of the free and the home of the brave."

Just as it might happen today, the two men meeting in the corridors, lunching together, walking home together, sharing the days' happenings, and discussing their ideas of promoting grain, salt and oil, there naturally developed a close friendship. Flagler at this time is described as "not handsome, but distinguished appearing with coal-black hair and cropped mustache." He impressed the tall, slender, pale and serious young Rockefeller as one of extraordinary capabilities, and as time went on, the latter began to influence his friend along oil lines.

Both were eager for wealth and both were determined and untiring in their efforts to take advanage of this great period in American history when there was no limit to the amount of money a man might acquire. Flagler, however, still stinging under the salt he had failed in, was not of a mind to make a quick change, even though he was aware of the fabulous story of oil, and the rapid development that was being made in the petroleum field.

Rockefeller wanted Flagler as a partner because of that gentleman's business acumen and sound policies. But also he needed capital to expand, and that Flagler didn't have.

It may easily be imagined that Flagler and Rockefeller talked many times over the possibility of Flagler becoming a president of the National Conference of Christians and Jews pictured with his Palm Beach host, A. M. Sonnabend, president of Whitehall and Dr. Otto Klineberg, professor of psychology at Columbia University. partner, and as easily realized that they were ever seeking a solution—a way in which it might be possible for him to join the infant oil company. Perhaps they just sat down one evening as two young men might today, and lined up the idea of approaching Stephen V. Harkness. They may even have worked out the manner of approach all to one end—in hopes this successful cousin of Mrs. Flagler's would arrange for the future owner of Whitehall to become a member of the firm.

However that was, Harkness was approached by Rocke-feller who told the Monroeville, Ohio liquor distiller that he had been given to understand by Henry Flagler that he (Harkness) might be interested in oil speculation. Harkness questioned the young man and learning Flagler would like the partnership but couldn't afford it, straight off put $100,000 in the business with the distinct understanding it was to be completely controlled by Henry Flagler.

Thus in 1867 the Cleveland Leader carried a story that announced to the world "the new firm of Rockefeller, Andrews and Flagler."

A colorful affair at Whitehall in late January, harked back to the pageantry that Palm Beach and Whitehall once knew, and was indeed called a beauty pageant. With prominent Palm Beach women and visiting first ladies as members of a committee of judges, the young contestants in the affair came from communities all over Florida.

Whitehall's exotic Jardin Royale was the setting for the pageant which besides its own natural bougainvillea vines, tropical plants, Egyptian lanterns shedding their mid-night blue jewel tones out over Lake Worth, was bedecked in pageant finery—a raised platform with a long linen-laden table decorated with flower arrangements and a great gold cathedral chair serving as a throne for Miss Mary Lee Yates of Delray Beach, winner of the event.

Whitehall was chosen as center of activities for the twoday pageant because of its historic background as the former home of Henry Flagler, and the management graciously consented as well to be hosts to the young women during their Palm Beach stay. Trips to points of interest on the island were arranged, and in honor of both judges and contestants, the Whitehall management, Mr. Roger P. Sonnabend, general manager, and Mr. Thomas V. Knox, resident manager, were hosts at a cocktail and coke party.

The Biltmore Hotel

SHOWN DURING THE HEIGHT OF THE WEEKLY SUNDAY FASHION SHOW ON THE TROPICAL TERRACE OF THE PALM BEACH BILTMORE IS THIS GROUP OF RESORTERS, IN THE FOREGROUND ARE THE BILTMORE YACHT MOORINGS AND SKYLINE OF WEST PALM BEACH.

SINCE FEBRUARY, ALWAYS THE FASHIONABLE month in Palm Beach, made its 1951 debut, resort life at the massive Palm Beach Biltmore Hotel has reached the greatest peak of activity in its history with more southward bound sunshine seekers than ever signing the register at Dan Taylor's fabulously successful hostelry.

The Biltmore yacht moorings where some of the nations largest and most pretentious yachts are berthed is the incentive for numerous cocktail parties. Largest recently given was aboard the 90-foot "For 'Evans Sake" which cruised up from Miami skippered by Roy S. Evans of Miami and Atlanta, and remained in port for a week. Among some of the guests trooping down to the Biltmore docks for the party were: Mr. and Mrs. George Schraft, Mr. and Mrs. Alexis Obolensky, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Rasmussen, Powell Crichton Jr. of New York, and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Brogan of Garden City, New York.

An interesting group of visitors steamed into port from Illinois aboard the gleaming white "Leading Lady" with owners Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Berry aboard from Bellesville. Their yachting guests included: State Senator and Mrs. O. E. Hodge of Granite City, Illinois, James Erickson, Mrs. Beatrice Henry and the Berry's daughter Joyce.

Of course the main topic of conversation around the pretty isle of Palm Beach is Dan Taylor's Palm Beach Biltmore Hotel-Hialeah race track train which departs every Wednesday and Saturday from the FEC railroad station in West Palm Beach arriving directly at the track gates in one hour and a half. Palm Beach colonists have found this a delightful and comfortable way to go to the races and as nearly everyone knows everybody else, a gay holiday air prevails on the air conditioned train which includes two club cars with food and beverage service.

Jerome F. McNulty, owner of Cross Bell Ranches, of Tulsa, Oklahoma, and Mrs. McNulty, Palm Beach winter colonists, climb aboard Dan Taylor's racing special every run with their house-guests from London, Mr. and Mrs. John B. Loodmer. It was Mr. McNulty's horse, "American Glory" who romped home to victory to capture the Palm Beach Handicap, thus making it the first stake race Mr. McNulty ever won. Guests noted aboard the "Biltmore Special" on a recent run were: Mr. and Mrs. William L. Boffa of Rowayton, Connecticut, with Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. Goffee of Larchmont, New York.

In another large group were: John Bentley Gallagher of Lake Forest, Chicago, who is vice-president and director of the Arlington track and Mrs. Gallagher, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Savage and Mr. and Mrs. Harry J. Reynolds, all of Chicago. Mr. Gallagher has a seasonal box in the Hialeah Club.

"Cowboy and Indian Party" attracting around 700 Biltmore guests. The galas were held out on the moonswept Tropical Terrace. Weekly square dances also out on the Terrace, Sunday night concerts, aquatic shows around the glittering Olympic pool, tennis, putting and shuffleboard tournaments keep resort life at the Biltmore humming.

Many visitors from the mid-west have checked into the Biltmore hotel for seasonal sojourns and from Omaha, Nebraska are: Mr. and Mrs. N. D. Micklin, Los Angeles, Mr. and Mrs. N. C. Nast. "Baystaters" joining the rapidly growing colony of Massachusetts visitors here include: Mr. and Mrs. David Dane of Brookline, Mr. and Mrs. Peter L. Flynn of Belmont, who are accompanied by their daughter Mrs. Helen Lane, James H. McManus and his son James Jr. from Weston, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hadley of Worcester.

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Lynch of Evansville, Indiana, have returned to the Biltmore for their annual visit and are here with their pretty blue and white yacht, "The Mistress." Mrs. B. Frank Bridges of Calgary, Alberta, Canada, is their yachting guest and the trio plan to make a number of cruises to the Bahamas, B.W.I. stopping off at the fashionable Cay Key Club at Cat Cay.

The West India Room continues to be the scene of interesting cocktail parties and recently entertaining there were: Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Bailey of Atlanta, and in a foursome from Massachusetts, Mr. and Mrs. William Dyer of Dover, and Mr. and Mrs. Donald Scott of Newton. The Dyers and Scotts who wintered annually at the Biltmore purchased homes on Palm Beach this Fall but spend many of their leisure moments at the Biltmore hotel. Johnny Bond and his MGM recording orchestra now highlight cocktail time in the West India Room, playing for after supper dancing as well.

Smart Restaurants

SMART ARRAY OF PALM BEACH winter colonists nightly throng Nando's Miramar Restaurant, which has become the most chic spot for dining and wining. With the formal opening in late January, the Miramar has been officially launched and the famous scampi restaurant continues to be a mecca for the after dark set, who revel in the fine cuisine and excellent wines and spirits.

Gene Murray, Palm Beach's favorite entertainer is at the piano nightly, and George Fabri, the strolling violinist plays from the cocktail hour on until the small hours of the morning. Their smart array of tunes includes Italian and French love ballads and hits from the newest Broadway shows, many from "Out of this World", "Guys and Dolls" and "Call Me Madam."

The continental atmosphere and indirect lighting facilities at the Miramar form a background of old world charm, and guests relax with an assurance that every small detail of service will be handled with quiet efficiency.

For al fresco dining, the new outdoor patio is perfect. Sheltered from the elements by colorful bouganvillea vines and other tropical plants, the patio is perfect for entertaining.

Noted at the Miramar were Mr. and Mrs. Eugene P. Lanfranchi, Mrs. Louis D. Beaumont and Count Charles Ciogna. Dining to together were Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Sheedy, and Mr. Henry I. Barbey.

In another group were Mr. and Mrs. Mario de Tulio and Mr. and Mrs. George T. McCarthy 3rd. Prince and Princess Rospigliosi-Gioeni are a noted twosome often at the Miramar.

Mr. and Mrs. F. Jerome McNulty entertained for their houseguests, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Loodmer; and Mr. and Mrs. William C. Merrill.

Others noted at the Miramar were: Mr. and Mrs. J. Lester Parsons, Mrs. Macsherry Robinson, Mr. Charlton Yarnall, Mr. A. Laughlin Alexander, Mrs. Margaret D. Nohowel, Mr. and Mrs. Morton H. Fetterolf, Mr. and Mrs. James Dinsmore Tew 2d, Mr. John Jay Cisco, Mrs. McAlpine Bell, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Feltman, Countess Dorelis, Mr. Herbert Pulitzer, Mr. and Mrs. George V. Meehan, Mr. and Mrs. Talmadge Woodward, Mr. and Mrs. William C. Cluett, Mr. and Mrs. David Graham Legget 3d, Miss Ruby Edna Pierce, Mrs. Isabelle M. O'Brien, Mr. Kenneth L. Van der Hulse, Mrs. Elsie Bingham Bohannon and Mr. Frank Prior.

Also at the restaurant were: Mr. and Mrs. Mark Whitman, Mr. and Mrs. Hunt T. Dickinson, Mrs. Ola McCaffrey Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Claude Harmon, Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Armour, Mrs. Craig Wood, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Brogan, Mr. and Mrs. John Cushman, Mr. Paul Cushman, Mrs. Columbis Healy, Miss Amy Lyman Phillips, Mrs. Stuyvesant Peabody, Mr. James A. R. Gibson, Mr. and Mrs. George H. Souther Jr., Mrs. Jenny Fabyan, Mr. Dean Libby, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Vincent MacNicol, Mr. and Mrs. Kurt Volk, Mr. and Mrs. Paul de Vries, Mr. A. W. Boettcher, Mr. and Mrs. Victor J. Burger, Mr. and Mrs. Tony Penna.

Discussing their favorite dog are Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Peyton Jenkins, photographed in the club house of the Palm Beach Kennel Club.

The usually bright February days and clear nights in Palm Beach provided perfect weather for the full enjoyment of dining at the charming French-Italian Restaurant Petite Marmite.

In the sunny near-noon hours, the courtyard with its spreading tree for shade makes a wonderful place for eating, and at night, whether in the open dining room or in the romantic court, the candlelit charm of the place provides a delightful setting for meals.

Remarkable in a resort town are the number of people who have come to sample only to be pleased with the cuisine and return night after night to try more of the delightful dishes listed on the varied menu.

Customers have remarked on the efficient continental service that anticipates the wishes of the diner and assures pleasant moments at the table.

Noted among those dining there recently were: Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Dulaney Hunter, Mr. Woolworth Donahue, Mr. and Mrs. John Coleman, Mr. and Mrs. A. Parker Bryant, Mr. and Mrs. Thorne Donnelly, Mr. and Mrs. Burton Ayres, Mr. and Mrs. Trevette Lockwood, Countess Laura Dorelis, Mr. and Mrs. George C. T. Remington, Mr. and Mrs. Alexis Obolensky, Maj. General and Mrs. Ralph K. Robertson, Mr. and Mrs. Randolph Burke, Mr. and Mrs. Jack W. Salisbury, Mrs. John R. CHIC AND SMART, PARK EAST is the newest addition to the colony's after dark spots. Park East, located at Bradley Place, is under the same management as the Miramar Restaurant, and caters to cocktail groups from 12 noon until the late hours of the morning. From 5 to 7:30 a special cocktail interval is held with both hot and cold hors d'eouvres.

Featured at the piano is Ralph Strain, who has obtained a leave of absence from the Blue Angel at New York. Mr. Strain is well known to the Palm Beach area, and his sophisticated piano style fits in perfectly with the atmosphere of Park East.

Reminiscent of the boites of New York, the lounge is small and intimate, with a smart decor which includes dramatic murals against a dark green background. For al fresco devotees, the sidewalk cafe is perfect for intimate groups. Focal point of interest there is the festive window box, colorful with tropical plants and flowers.

At Park East were: Prince and Princess Rospigliosi-Gioeni, Mr. and Mrs. George H. Souther Jr., Mrs. McAlpin Bell, Miss Nancy Bell, Mr. Edward H. Cochrane, Mr. and Mrs. Jack MacDonald, Mrs. Isabelle M. O'Brien, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer W. Thomas, Mr. and Mrs. George Schwab, Miss Olive Mills Massie, Mr. A. Laughlan Alexander, Mr. and Mrs. A. Popular patrons of the Patio are Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Feltman, well known members of the cottage colony.

THE PATIO RESTAURANT is accustomed to hear the accolades of its patrons, but this season a new superlative is needed to add to the "good-better-best" trend of opening nights and special events at the colorful rendezvous.

The informal opening night shortly after Christmas was marked down as best in the Patio's history of more than 20 years in Palm Beach. The New Year's Eve celebration set another record, and then the formal opening on January 24 another new peak was established.

It was another record crowd that turned out to enjoy the fun and frolic, the excellent food and outstanding music, and to enjoy the new policy of the Patio, patterned after the age-old style of the French cafes.

When "show time" arrived, the building was darkened and a single spotlight was turned on the Patio's maestro of music, Val Ernie. As Ernie played his theme song, "Underneath the Florida Moon," other violinists were picked up by the spotlight as they strolled about the tables. Round after round of applause followed Maestro Ernie's playing of popular American and French songs and the great applause was shared by Miss Hazel Lenington at the console.

Many large parties attended the Patio's formal opening, indicative of the high standing the place holds in resort entertainment. Noted at ringside tables were:

Mr. Herbert Pulitzer, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Topping, Mr. and Mrs. Earl E. T. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Jock McLean, Mr. and Mrs. Francis T. Hunter, Mr. and Mrs. David Legget 3d, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Lee, Mr. and Mrs. George Schrafft, Mr. and Mrs. John S. Osterstock, Mr. Herman Held, Mr. and Mrs. E. V. Quinn, Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Rogers, Mr. Percy Mendleson, Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Ferst, Mr. and Mrs. George Freidland, Mr. Sam Kass, Mr. Louis Adler, Mr. J. Martino, Mr. Charles Francis Coe, Mr. J. H. Carr, Mr. William Blood. Mrs. Inez McNeil, Mrs. Raymond Royce Kent, Mr. Henry Sodowsky, Mr. H. W. Prentice, Mr. Milton Florsheim, Mr. Porter R. Porter, Mrs. Nate Spingold, Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Erwin, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Troy, Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Block, Mr. Paul Keenan, Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Seeburg.

Managed with dignity and efficiency, the Brazilian Court has a definite appeal for discriminating persons who are accustomed to the personalized service one finds in one's home and the homes of friends. The rooms and suites are decorated to afford a maximum of comfort and convenience, and still retain a marked individuality.

The outdoor patios with their gay umbrella tables, tropical plants and flaming vines, are perfect settings for al fresco luncheons and dinners. And for those who prefer an indoor setting, there is the smart Bamboo dining room.

Mr. and Mrs. Vincent S. Mulford entertainment with a dinner at Brazilian Court. Mr. and Mrs. Joseph P. Draper entertained guests there at dinner also.

Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Candor returned from a trip to Havana to resume their stay at the hotel. Maj. and Mrs. M. C. Migel of New York are at Brazilian Court for a stay. Mrs. Francis B. Wyth came from Cedar Falls, Ohio, to join her cousin, Mrs. James E. Hollingsworth and Mr. Hollingsworth.

Mrs. William H. Buck has come from Buffalo for her annual seasonal stay at Brazilian Court. Also there for the season are Mr. and Mrs. Frank L. Jones of Plandome, L. I. Mrs. John Adams Chapman of Lake Forest, has arrived for the winter.

Another old time guest at Brazilian Court is Dr. George G. Fisher of Scarsdale, N. Y. Mrs. Paul E. Booth of Indianapolis, was a recent guest.

Mrs. John H. Morice of Shennecock Hills, L. I., arrived for the winter, accompanied by Mrs. Franklin Richardson.

At the foot of Worth Avenue, overlooking picturesque Lake Worth, the Villas, a colony of its own, is reminiscent of the charming villas of France.

Individual and distinct, the hotel has long been identified with Palm Beach life, and this year the restaurant is under the direct management of Miss Miriam Stowers and Mr. Joseph Adkins, assisted by Mr. Richard Middleton.

Among the guests at the Villas are: Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Orcutt of New Canaan, Conn., Mme. Yvonne Garchery of New York, and Dr. and Mrs. A. Floyd Zimmerman of Largo, Fla.

The Vineta, under the direction of Mr. John C. Waller, who is beginning his second season there, is ideally located in the heart of Palm Beach. A hotel of long standing, it caters to a discriminating clientele, which has been making the Vineta its winter home for many seasons.

Miss Julia Carpenter of Boston, has returned to pass her 5th season at the Vineta. Mr. and Mrs. Albert Sohner of New York, are there for the winter, and spending the month of January at the Vineta are Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Woods of St. Louis.

There for an indefinite stay is Mrs. W. H. Harris of Richmond, Va. Others who have recently come are: Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Pollard of Greensboro, N. C., and Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Gurney of Orlando.

Miss Virginia Byrnum and Mrs. Charles Harper of Portsmouth, are at the Vineta for a stay. Miss Janet McAdie of Brooklyn, N.Y., is another seasonal guest. Also there are Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Reedy and their daughter, Miss Lois Reedy of River Forest, Ill., who were accompanied by Mrs. John Evans also of River Forest.

Coming from Havana were: Mr. and Mrs. J. Y. Gayle of Shirley, Va., Mrs. L. H. Edmunds and Mrs. O. L. Noble of Cleveland.

Mr. Francis Smiley of Brooklyn, has returned for the season and Mr. Hugo Schmidt of New Rochelle, is there for his seventh winter.

Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Albertson and son Thomas have arrived from New Rochelle. They were accompanied down by Mrs. F. D. Barnes, also of New Rochelle.

Boca Raton Club

A DELIGHTFUL INNOVATION this season at the Boca Raton Hotel and Club is the series of concerts by the Boca Raton Chamber Orchestra, Tony Cabot conducting, one of the many social events planned for the entertainment of the guests. After the first concert, requests from the cottage colonly and winter residents in Delray Beach and vicinity were received by the management to attend, so invitations and courtesy cards were extended to music-lovers and the artistically-inclined in the surrounding communities.

The recreational staff at the Boca Raton Hotel and Club is as replete with big names in the hotel field as the guest roster is with celebrities in a variety of fields. First and foremost is golf pro Tommy Armour who is celebrating his 20th season as pro at the Club. Many golfers from country clubs all over the country drop in for a visit with Tommy Armour and a round of golf on one of the country's most scenic layouts. He could be busy shaking hands and signing autographs daily instead of playing golf. Frank McGinness is assistant pro; "Stitch" Bernard of the Westchester C. C., starter, and Jack Carson, caddymaster, Fred Perry, famous tennis star, is at the Club as pro for his eighth season. For more than a decade he was the tennis world's reigning king both as the world's amateur and professional champ. He led the British team that won the Davis Cup from 1933 through 1936. Many visitors here to tour the Club's horticultural wonders enjoy

Tony Cabot, Entertainment Director, arranges for the music in the Patio Royale, the Terrace Grill and the Cabana Clubs as well as elaborate shows with imported talent on Wednesday and Saturday Gala Nights.

Tony Cabot started his studies of music at the age of six in Cleveland under the guidance of his father, who was an accomplished musician. He has 14 active musicians in his immediate family.

He has studied at the Conservatory of Music in Naples and the Academy in Rome, conducted the San Carlo Opera orchestra, traveled during the war in Italy, southern France and Switzerland conducting and playing concerts for the allied personnel, conductor at the Hotel Pierre in New York for two years, was staff violinist at radio station WTAM in Cleveland.

Ronald Reagan and Richard Hayden were surrounded at the Cabana Club by the young crowd and 'teenagers clamoring for autographs. Pulchritudinous Betty Underwood, television star, took up water skiing when she met many of the younger set while vacationing here. She has been touring in "Angel Street" and returns to New York to another television stint.

If you ever wondered what became of Gloria Jean, child singing star, she is now very much grown up, and having a winter vacation at the Club with her husband, Bertram A. Mayers of New York City, and their charming little daughter, Hillary.

Louis A. Lotito recently returned from New York to join his wife at the Club. He flew up to attend the opening

Washington Letter

Dear Dora:

We've been having june in january up here with 70 degree temperatures prevailing, but by the time you get this we will probably be buried in snow.

Flocks of people have been leaving for Florida, but for those left the social life goes on at an exhausting pace. The Dean of the Diplomatic Corps and Mme. Munthe de Morgenstierne entertained royal visitors this winter, their highnesses the Crown Prince and Crown Princess of Norway. There were a series of dinners at the Embassy also before the Morgenstiernes left for Miami and Palm Beach. The Ambassador will speak to the Committee of 100 in Miami on February 20th, then return to Palm Beach where the Morgenstiernes will be the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Lars Christensen at the Everglades Club.

The incomparable Rosa Ponselle, who had come down from Baltimore for the VIP show, sang like an angel the next evening at one of the Norwegian Embassy dinners. Among the other guests were Post Master General and Mrs. Jesse Donaldson, former Ambassador and Mrs. Augusto Rosso, the Peruvian Ambassador and Mme. de Berckemeyer, the Leslie Biffles and the much publicized Washington hosts, Mr. and Mrs. Morris Cafritz.

Royal Visitors at the Norwegian Embassy in Washington: Their Royal Highnesses the Crown Prince and Crown Princess of Norway (seated) Madame Munthe de Morgenstierne, Col. N. R. Ostgaard, and Mme. Rangi Ostgaard, Lady in Waiting to

With the great of the land in the audience and on the stage the VIP show brought out the most impressive assemblage ever to gather in Constitution Hall. It was put on by the Women's National Press Club to raise money for the USO. Everybody had fun including the President of the United States who was wreathed in smiles most of the time. There were serious moments, too. And tears were in everybody's eyes when Dean Acheson introduced "The most important man in our land," and an humble, footless GI from Korea was wheeled onto the stage by Mrs. Alben Barkley.

Among the comical acts were snow-topped Senator Guy Gillette playing and singing his state song "Iowa-y." And Brig. General William Clinch brought down the house with his warm-hearted rendition of "If I Had My Way."

The good-looking Cuban Ambassador Luis Machado gave Washington a little ribbing by singing a song in Spanish called "Hot Air" to his own expert accompaniment on a Spanish guitar. French Ambassadress Bonnet, draped in a dramatic deep red satin gown, put on a miniature fashion show with some of Washington's best-looking women modeling the mst fabulous Dior gowns especially flown in for this benefit show.

There was a "Charleston" chorus boasting more prominent names than most official receptions with the performers in their outlandish 1920 costumes enjoying it as much as the audience. Three outstanding dancers were Martha Rountree of radio fame. Mrs. Wm. R. Hearst Jr., and Katie Malone, wife of the Senator from Nevada.

For weeks a group of socialites has been practicing square dancing at the Joseph E. Davies estate. And Mrs. Davies shepherded a group onto the stage just before the last act. The dance went on a little too long, but was amusing to watch, and former Ambassadress to Norway, Daisy Harriman, (who they say is over 70) had people roaring with laughter over the way she would get out of step and gum up the works. But it was a good show, put on capably for a most worthy cause.

The Minister of Luxembourg and Mme Le Gallais entertained at a resplendent reception the end of January to celebrate the birthday of the Grand Duchess. In Luxembourg they celebrate with torchlight parades and dancing in the streets until the wee hours. And, of course, our Minister Perle Mesta enters into the festivities there with a large reception at the Legation.

Here big black limousines were slithering in and out of the driveway of the handsome legation from 5:30 until well past 8:00. With the Minister, Venetian born Mme. Le Gallais received her guests in a burnished gold lame dress the same color as her pretty hair. The Luxembourg Legation is noted for the excellence of its buffets spread out in splendor upstairs and down. The Embassy was filled with masses of spring flowers against a background of handsome Oriental objects of art brought by the Le Gallais from Japan.

I ran into Secretary of State Dean Acheson on the stairs with Mrs. Acheson in a pale mauve hat sporting a pink rose. Former Ambassador Joseph Grew whom I hadn't seen since the days of evacuation from China on the Gripsholm, was there. The Grews lead a quiet life in Washington and go out seldom.

Diplomats abounded with Britain's Sir Oliver Franks and Lady Franks heading the list which included just about all of them, even Russia's Ambassador Panyushkin who literally seemed to find no one to talk to.

After the Luxembourg party, well-liked "Mike" Elizalde who is now the Philippine Ambassador, and was at one time a member of the U. S. Congress, gave a dinner honoring the Spanish Ambassador. Mr. Elizalde, who is an accomplished pianist, was another performer at the big VIP show. He is an expert polo player and prides himself on his 400 prize steers he raises on his nearby Maryland farm.

I sat next to effervescent violinist Giovanni Bagarotti at the Spanish Embassy at dinner the other night. He and his equally young and talented wife express their love of life whole-heartedly in five or six languages as well as in their music. The Spanish Ambassador and Senora de Lequerica gave a large dinner in honor of the Bagarottis and M. Bagarotti thrilled everybody by playing for nearly two hours in the large ballroom after the dinner.

The violinist played last month at New York's Town Hall, and guest-soloed while here with the National Gallery of Art Symphony. Before another concert at the Shoreham sponsored by the Mount Vernon Seminary former Ambassador and Mrs. Joseph E. Davies feted the couple at a luncheon. In 1949 they were the guests of the Davies for a month in Palm Beach.

The couple left the end of this month for Palm Beach to stay with Mrs. Peyton Van Rennsselaer. Their concert tour this time will lead them to the Norton Gallery and then back for further concerts in Boston and in Maine.

M. Bagarotti says it took him 11 years to persuade the former Martha Rosseau to marry him and become his permanent accompanist. The couple met in Berlin while she was studying piano. Her father was well known in Paris and her brother Theodore Rousseau is curator of the New York Metropolitan Museum of Art. M. Bagarotti hopes soon to get his citizenship and become a resident of Gotham.

Senator and Mrs. Millard Tydings left Washington on the Nieuw Amsterdam for a Caribbean cruise which Mrs. Tydings says is their first vacation together since 1938. Their daughter Eleanor who made her debut this year hopes to come to Palm Beach later this winter.

The J. Spencer Loves have left Washington with their children to open their house in Palm Beach. Pretty Mrs. Love became the mother of her fourth baby just before Christmas.

Col. and Mrs. Laidler B. Mackall Jr. and Mrs. and Mrs. McCullough Darlington visited briefly in Florida enroute to Havana and Vero Beach. Their friends Mr. and Mrs. Henry S. Huidekoper motored down to spend some time at Palm Beach and Miami before going on to Cuba.

A wedding reception of Washington and Florida interest was that given by Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Akers here in honor of Mr. and Mrs. S. Poli Sheahan who flew in a few days before from romantic Rome where they were married over the Christmas holidays. Mrs. Sheahan is the former Shirley Akers. The young couple was married at St. Peter's and Mr. Sheahan's glamorous aunt, the Marchesa Gerini, gave the wedding reception for them at her home in Rome. Princess Anna Maria del Drago who was in the wedding accompanied Marchesa Gerini to America for a fling in Washington and New York and of course were very much present at the party. There will be a similar reception given by the Akers at the Surf Club in Miami sometime in February.

Mrs. Thompson Montgomery was among those entertained at the monthly dinner dance at the Sulgrave Club given by popular Washington bachelor Ralph MacBane. Mrs. Montgomery left soon after for Palm Beach. Former Princess Halim, and her husband, Mr. Frank Rediker, and the Frank Delaneys from New York were also on Ralph's guest list.

Darling, have you heard that Prince Guido Pigniatelli and the former Barbara Eastman will be coming back to Washington to live come spring? Guido, whose first wife was the late Henrietta Hartford, left this fall planning to reside in Lima, Peru. Guess they have decided Washington isn't so bad.

Hear that Mr. and Mrs. Walter B. Brooks who are honeymooning on their yacht "Berania" at Cat Cay may be coming to Palm Beach for a visit. Mrs. Brooks is the former Mary Rogers, daughter of the late Will Rogers.

Another glamorous wedding that will draw top Capital officialdom and local socialites in the offing is that of Judy Bowdoin, daughter of Mrs. Edward H. Foley Jr., wife of the Undersecretary of the Treasury. She will marry Al Key on March 10th if all goes through as planned. They are awaiting the arrival of Al's parents, U. S. Ambassador to Burma and Mrs. David Key who should be flying in any time now.

Must close now, darling, as we are off to a reception in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Culbertson who have just returned from Spain where Mr. Culbertson has been our Charge d'affaires for the past three years. Mr. and Mrs. Culbertson will be leaving soon for Mexico where Paul will become our Minister Counselor. Expect to see our newly appointed Ambassador to Spain, Mr. Stanton Griffis, who told me he very reluctantly left beautiful Palm Beach.

Much love, and let me hear from you soon.

Nassau

The social firmament has never shone more brightly than in the gay winter season now nearing its peak in this fashionable British resort.

Traditionally the busiest month of the social season here, February packs more into its twenty-eight days than any other month of the year. The bright round of parties, thes dansante, beach picnics on a lavish scale and the social-sporting whirl which so far have characterized this year's season are taking place at a greatly accelerated tempo. The winter colony is so large this season that it is becoming an almost impossible task for hostesses to plan functions which do not conflict with at least half-a-dozen other parties taking place at the same time.

Every conceivable kind of party is adding its touch of glamour to this best-ever season. There are come-as-you-are parties, race-track parties, moonlight sailing parties topped off with a picnic on some secluded cay, fashion parties, dinner-dances, gay fiestas, and masquerade balls, and perhaps most exclusive of all, the socially-bright theatre parties which have sprung up as a result of Nassau's first fling at professional legitimate theatre, the new Bahamas Playhouse.

Seating arrangements at the Playhouse couldn't be more convenient for winter colonists. The seats are arranged in tiers, arena style, and tickets for the eight-week season are sold on a subscription basis. Playgoers may choose any of the nightly performances available, and are required to keep the same night throughout the season, as well as the same seat. Consequently, the smart set have already planned their seating arrangements for the season so that they are with their own particular group of friends. In one part of the theatre one finds, for instance, a group of socially-distinguished Canadians who have elected to sit together; in another, a party of distinguished American guests, and so on. And many hostesses have taken additional subscriptions for the theatre season, to provide seats for their guests.

Never has the winter colony here been more cosmopolitan. The many well-known new faces who are wintering here this year have come from all parts of the international set. And in keeping with the large number of new winter residents who have built or leased homes here, the number of house guests has increased by leaps and bounds.

New winter visitors used to arrive weekly in the old days. The last few years they have arrived daily, by ship and plane. This year, they are arriving hourly. Some hostesses are being chauffered to the airport and dockside several times a day to greet their guests. Invitations to the Bahamas are being eagerly accepted by house guests, many of whom see Nassau as one of the few places left in the world where gracious living still holds sway.

One of the largest private luncheon parties held here recently was the buffet at the Drake Hotel in honour of Mrs. W. George Elcock's birthday, when the Elcocks entertained a distinguished gathering of more than a hundred guests.

Handicrafters among winter colonists here are awaiting the arrival of the famous carpet made by Her Majesty, the Queen Mother, which is to be flown here from Canada for special exhibition. His Excellency the Governor and Mrs. R. A. R. Neville were to attend a preview of the carpet before the exhibition is opened to the public. The exhibition will raise funds for the Silver Jubilee of the Nassau branch of the Imperial Order of the Daughters of the Empire.

February has shone so far with such socially-bright happenings as the Denis Matthews piano recita's, the three plays, "Springtime for Henry," "John Loves Mary" and "Harvey," shown by a distinguished company of players before an audience which included the largest gathering of social celebrities yet to be present at a Nassau event, and the glamorous social-sporting whirl which is taxing to the fullest the energies of even the youngest of the winter set.

Recent arrivals include Mr. and Mrs. Wood-Prince of Chicago; Marshal of the Royal Air Force Lord Tedder, and Lady Tedder; Sir Alwyn Crow; Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Ormandy of Philadelphia; Mr. and Mrs. David Davis, Hamilton, Ontario; Mr. and Mrs. L. H. McKim of Montreal; Mr. and Mrs. Harry C. Hindmarsh of Toronto; Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Lind of Minneapolis; Mr. and Mrs. Edward Swing of Bryn Mawr, Pa.; Mr. and Mrs. Willard Cole of Oak Park; Mr. and Mrs. Mel Axler of Forest Hills; Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Newman of Montreal; Lord and Lady Trefgarne; Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Brennan of Detroit; Lord Iliffe; Brigadier Thomas Robins; Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Brice, who have opened "The Rectory" for the season; Mr. and Mrs. David Bellamore of New York and Nassau; and Mr. Dudley Butterfield of Hamilton, Bermuda.

Vero Beach

As the season swings into full activity, the golden sands, sunny lanes and smart meeting places of Vero Beach sparkle with the names and faces, some familiar from past seasons, some new, of prominent persons.

Parties, sports, exciting visitors and the ever popular bridge tournaments have enlivened the last few days.

Brigadier General and Mrs. Wilson H. Stephenson paid a brief visit to Vero on their way from their lovely farms in Bucks County, Pennsylvania, to Nassau, but they are expected to make a return visit here later for some fishing in Indian River. Mrs. Stephenson is the former Lady Katherine Humphreys of London.

Mr. and Mrs. G. Worthington Hipple, of Chicago, are spending some time in Vero Beach. Previous to her marriage, Mrs. Hipple was Laurette Filbrandt, well known in radio as "Fay" on the Ma Perkins program.

Canasta temporarily took a back seat as Mr. C. Alfred Briggs began his annual duplicate bridge tournaments which have been so well liked in the past.

This year they are being held at the Royal Park Golf Club each Tuesday evening. Top score of the first meeting went to Mr. and Mrs. Howard M. Horton of Ft. Pierce, with second place being won by Mrs. Horace A. Moore, of Vero Beach.

Mr. and Mrs. John Casey of Chicago, recently stopped at the Windswept Hotel before going to Delray where Mr. Casey plays polo. The Caseys expect to return to Vero shortly.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Schenk of Chicago, gave a cocktail party at the Windswept Club Room. Among those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Robert McDougal, Mr. and Mrs. Fred-

Mr. and Mrs. George H. Fearons Jr. of Stony Brook, Long Island, New York, have arrived here for the winter season.

Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Henry of Alliance, Ohio; Mr. and Mrs. Henry Chapin of Port Washington, New York, and Mr. and Mrs. William Connors were welcome guests at the most pleasant and lovely Driftwood.

One of the outstanding and most attractive women of the nation graced the local scene, the guest of Mrs. Morrow Krum, Mrs. India Edwards of Washington, D. C. A cocktail party was held in her honor at the Windswept Pool Club and the guest list included many of the most important and attractive persons in the Vero Beach area.

Among those enjoying the party with the charming Mrs. Edwards were: Mr. and Mrs. Roland Arnold, Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Boye III, Mr. and Mrs. Louis G. Burger, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur H. Home Interest Centered In the Great Outdoors

"THE OLD ORDER CHANGETH," and today home-builders like the French Impressionists, are seeking to feature Nature as supreme it would seem. No longer do you find great, broad, towering and spreading over acres of ground, the rambling, elegant villas such as at first marked Palm Beach an international resort.

Today's homes tend toward the simplest form of architectural beauty and while as of old, the main idea is life slanted patio-wise, it is very often with a one-floor plan domain with all interests centered on the great out-of-doors.

Windows are wide, and entire walls oft disappear presenting a woodland setting of tropical charm when French windows the width of an entire room are opened up.

In Palm Beach the trend is such-away from the stately and toward the informal and easily accessible as for example the home pictured here owned by Mr. and Mrs. Russell P. Kelly, Jr., in Via Vizcaya.

Built practically in the woods, the attractive, livable little house is far back from the main thoroughfare, completely surrounded by gumbo limbos, palms and melaleucas. Set in a tropical park with a bit of jungle air about, all interest from an architectural point of view is centered on the tropical wonderland.

A charming living room with soft neutral walls and window hangings of forest green and buttercup yellow opens onto a generous patio equipped for comfort. And similarly, each of the other rooms in the house open into this cloister that serves the same purpose that once did the front porch of the earliest pioneers.

In Palm Beach you may still build a house in the woods...the Russell P. Kelly Jr.'s attractive one-floor plan home of contemporary architecture is an example.

Unique Lakefront Estate

residence is an authentic reproduction of an Andalusian cortijo, the country house of the Spanish landowner. It reproduces faithfully the traditional cortijo, from the 16th Century architecture of the southern wing to the 18th Century northern wing which houses the garage. This architectural variety lends charm and history to every detail. Even the hand-made pastel-colored roofing tiles (with visible fingerprints) originated in old Barcelona.

The house, appropriately furnished with many 16th and 17th Century Spanish and residence is an authentic re-

17th Century Spanish and Italian pieces against a back-ground of rich tapestries and brocades, is unusually livable and homelike. There are 4 master bedrooms, 5 baths, a huge cathedral living room and a colorfully planted enclosed patio with two majestic 80-foot palms.

Four acres of exquisitely landscaped grounds form a lovely background for this estate which well deserves its reputation as one of Florida's finest. For details call or write for illustrated brochure No. 43192. chure No. 43192.

Dublin Inn Club and Cottages

Dublin, New Hampshire

A little Inn of quiet dignity and charm

"The most wonderful air in the world," said Mark Twain after a season in Dublin. Altitude 1500 feet. Situated at the foot of Grand Monadnock Mt., Dublin is the third highest village east of the Rocky Mountains. Considered one of the most unique summer colonies in the east. Aside from its location and beautiful, picturesque surroundings, it offers superb golf, tennis, swimming and riding.

The Inn is charming and run in excellent taste. Summer sojourn for many Palm Beachers.

Osceola

Florida's Famous Indian

OSCEOLA WAS NOT THE ONLY famous Indian to be confined to Florida forts in seeming violation of a flag of truce.

Geronimo, scourge of the southwest and Indian leader in the final days of conflict between the savages and the settlers, was confined for two years in Fort Pickens near Pensacola. The ancient fort today has become a part of the state park system and time has ravaged its once fine masonry, but the walls still look as strong as they were in 1886-88 when they confined the leaders of the Apaches.

The Apache Geronimo was not a chief, but a medicine man and prophet who rose to power by force of intellect and a burning desire for vengeance. The camps, women and children of his group had been destroyed by marauding Mexicans while there was peace between the Indian tribes and Mexico. Geronimo led a series of punitive attacks on the Mexicans, which seem to have carried over against the people of New Mexico and Arizona. This period of terror lasted for 10 years.

Finally the surrender of the tribes was agreed on. Geronimo and 16 of his braves were confined to Fort Pickens, but in seeming violation of the treaty of surrender, their wives and children were confined in Fort Marion. Geronimo's second wife died in Pensacola while he still was in prison. Geronimo meantime was moved from Fort Pickens to Fort Sill, where he died in 1909.

Fort Pickens was one of the Union strongholds during the Civil War. It was never captured by the Confederates, and from it the Union guns sealed off Pensacola bay. Fort Pickens and some 1,600 acres has recently been acquired as a state park, and will be developed as such.

Notables Visit Jamaica

During the early weeks of the winter season many celebrated and socially prominent visitors have arrived on this tropical island for winter holidays.

From the United States, Senator and Mrs. Owen D. Brewster, of Maine, were honored at a luncheon party by the U. S. Consul General and Mrs. Brown. Top-ranking American naval officers in Jamaica were among the many guests.

Mr. and Mrs. John G. Flint, members of the Somerset and Country Club of Boston, are spending a month on the island.

Lord Beaverbrook of London, entertained at tea a party including: Col. Thomas Kennedy, Ontario minister of agriculture, Hon. Arthur Welsh, Ontario provincial secretary, Mr. Thomas L. Patrick, a member of the Ontario legislature, the Count and Countess de Sibour, now residing at Reading near Montego Bay, Mrs. Pamela Akers of New York, and Mrs. Joel S. Lawson of St. James, Long Island.

The Rt. Hon. Vincent Massey of Port Hope, Ontario, former Canadian High Commissioner to the United Kingdom and a brother of screen star Raymond Massey, has completed a two-weeks visit at Good Hope Ranch, in Falmouth. He was accompanied by his son, Mr. Lionel Massey, and the latter's wife.

Hon. Kenneth S. Patton, of Charlottesville, Va., a former American minister to New Zealand and now adviser in foreign affairs to the Kingdom of Siam, in Thailand, is a visitor at the Myrtle Bank Hotel, Kingston, with Mrs. Patton.

Hon. Paul Martin, K.C.,P.C., of Toronto, former Canadian secretary of state, who served later as minister of national health and welfare and was prominent in the early organization of the United Nations, has made a tour of the island.

Recently arrived at Port Maria, on Jamaica's North shore, is Noel Coward, who will spend the greater part of the next six months at his home, "Blue Harbour," and who is entertaining Captain Edouard Molyneux, Parisian dress designer, John C. Wilson, New York theatrical producer, and Roger Marville and Robert Shadworth of Paris. Captain Molyneux leased "Casa del Sol," a villa in the Ocho Rios area, for his winter residence.

Visiting Ivor Novello, noted British actor, at his home, "Wyndways," near Montego Bay, are Lady Peel, better known as Beatrice Lillie, and four other guests well known on the English stage, Robert Andrews and Alan Melville and Misses Olive Gilbert and Phyllis Monkman.

Others enjoying winter holidays at Reading include: Lady Pamela Bird, of London, who will occupy her winter home there for about five months, and Major and Mrs. John H. Carmichael, also of London, who will stay at their own residence there.

Visiting Runaway Bay are: Mr. George Tildesley and Mr. and Mrs. Edward B. Newhall, all of London.

Staying at the Myrtle Bank Hotel, Kingston, are two officials of the legal department of the United Nations in New York, Mr. Pierre Raton, formerly minister of reconstruction in Paris, and Mr. Axel Serup, formerly with the Danish foreign service in Copenhagen.

Two noted turf stars from England are staying at the Myrtle Bank Hotel, Kingston: Messrs. William Carr, first jockey to King George, accompanied by his wife, Joan, and daughter, Deanna, and Thomas Gosling, jockey of the Rt. Hon. Winston Churchill.

Nassau

GAIETY IS REACHING NEW HEIGHTS as the socially distinguished winter season moves toward its peak here.

Socially-distinguished guests continue to arrive. Some house guests are just making their first Nassau visit of the season; others are yielding to hostess persuasion and remaining longer. Nobody shows any sign of wanting to leave, and with new guests arriving every hour, hostesses have never been busier.

Transportation has been tailored to fit the winter colony's needs, both by air and sea. Bahamas Airways, for example, is busy shuttling between West Palm Beach and Nassau. Some air services are operating almost around the clock in an effort to cope with the volume of arrivals, and many hostesses are finding greeting new guests is a full-time occupation.

Socially, the season has never been brighter. Intimate, candlelight suppers, gay dinner-dances, masquerades, charity fashion balls, picturesque native cabarets, and a larger number of parties than ever before is making this season the most glamorous in the history of this fashionable resort.

At the Bahama Playhouse, entertainment continues to be of exceptionally high calibre. Audiences—delighted at the thought of a season's playgoing—are most appreciative, and tentative plans are already under way to make the Playhouse another seasonal institution.

Entertainment is of similar quality at the hotels. At the British Colonial, popular manager Mr. Kenneth Arnold has secured the services of such outstanding artists as Messrs. Irving Berlin, Rudy Vallee, Edward Everett Horton and others in his Garden Grill. Mr. Arnold, who has many friends in the theatrical world, was recently the recipient of an award from gourmet Maurice Dreicer.

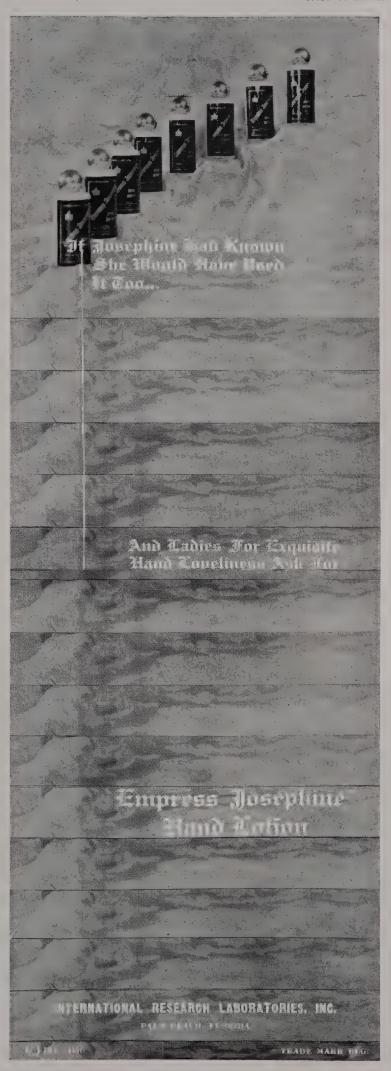

At the Fort Montagu Beach Hotel, Miss Marion Harris continues to act as chanteuse, with Jack Harris providing music for dancing.

The picturesque old Royal Victoria Hotel is a popular spot for cocktails on the Starlight Terrace, where calypso singers and Sunday-night spirituals prevail.

Biggest event on this month's social calendar is the Bahamas Red Cross Fair, to be held March 8 under the distinguished patronage of His Excellency the Governor and Mrs. Neville, who have graciously offered the lower gardens of Government House as the site.

The sporting calendar includes such thrills as polo at Clifford Park, where socialite-sportsman Mr. William Todd is putting his string of thoroughbreds into the chukkers; the weekly races at Hobby Horse Hall, the championship-calibre golf tournament at the Bahamas Country Club March 2, 3, 4 and the weekly sailing races off the Nassau Yacht Club.

Among recent arrivals were: Lady Mountain, Lady Gordon, Lord and Lady Esher; Mr. and Mrs. Michael Pulitzer, the Countess Breckneck; Lt.-Gen. Sir Otto Lund; Mr. and Mrs. Sylvester Maddock of Manhasset, N. Y.; The Earl of Aboyne; the Marquess and Marchioness of Huntly; Lady Cobham; Mr. and Mrs. John J. Power of Youngstown, O.; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Boyer of Akron, O.; Mr. and Mrs. John Craft of Montauk, N. Y.; Lord and Lady Kemsley, Mr. and Mrs. Irving Berlin, now making Nassau a regular winter rendezvous; Mr. and Mrs. Ray Flanigan of El Nido, Cal.; Miss Julie Knox, daughter of Lady Swaythley, and a recent house guest of His Excellency the Governor and Mrs. Neville.

Late February in Palm Beach is perhaps the most fabulous time of year. The season is reaching its zenith, and the array of houseguests, parties, and other entertainment features are all melding to create a rapid pace of activity.

The avenues and boulevards are packed with cars, and more and more refugees from the frozen north are seeking relaxation in a tropical climate.

Now, more than ever before, are the smart resort nostesses opening their villas to entertain visiting guests and members of the cottage colony. Cocktail gatherings and dinsers are still the popular mediums, with occasional dances are given which add a touch of eclat to the season.

When the magic spell of night envelopes the island, inhabitants assume a feeling of joie de vivre and prepare for the evening of gaiety only to be found in the elegance of a Paim Beach setting. Chic gowns worn by the women, the extendard aroma of Florida's own perfume, the night blooming jasamine and the beauty of the surroundings are all sheer glamour.

Mr. and Mrs. Mario de Tullio entertained 14 friends for dinner at their new home on Via Marina. Mrs. Townsend McNeil gave a cocktail party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Kneip, where she is a guest.

Miss Harriett McCormick Dawes, daughter of Mrs. Emily McCormick Dawes of Chicago and Palm Beach, and Mr. Charles Cutler Dawes of Chicago was married February tenth to Lt. Theodore Minton Wilson, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Percy H. Wilson of Chicago. The church of Bethesda-by-the-Sea was the setting for the wedding, with the Rev. Tage Teisen, rector, officiating. A small reception followed at the Jamaica Lane home of the bride's mother.

Escorted by her father, Mrs. Wilson wore a gown of white satin fashioned with a tight bodice and long fitted veil. The dress had been worn by her aunt, Mrs. Louis Watermulder of New York at her wedding. Her veil, which belonged to another aunt, Mrs. Robert T. Sherman of Winnetka, Ill., was white imported Richelieu lace. Her flowers were gardenias.

Mrs. Richard Oughton of Dwight, Ill., was her only attendant. Suzanne Baron was flower girl.

Mr. Robert Wilson of Lake Forest was best man to his brother, and ushers included the bride's brother, Mr. Rufus C. Dawes 2d, and Mr. Paul E. Kohler Jr.

Mrs. Wilson attended the Girls Latin School at Chicago and the Connecticut College.

Her husband attended the Virginia Military Institute and before entering the service was associated with the Percy G. Wilson Co. of Chicago.

The couple went to Varadero Beach for their wedding trip, and will make their home temporarily at Ft. Leonard Wood where Lt. Wilson is stationed.

Private Flying—a Boon to Palm Beach For Pleasure, Business and Travel

PRIVATE FLYING WAS BORN in the Palm Beach Beach area through sport, grew through war to mature not only as a hobby, and protection in case of war, but a decided asset to the busy business man.

Many things encourage local pilots. In the first place, very few if any places provide more beauty from the air than Palm Beach. The Palm Beaches have not really been seen until viewed from the air, with a sun setting in the Atlantic, framing the stateliness and charm of the Breakers, Biltmore, Whitehall and Colony as well as the homes that string along the land's edge like jewels.

The splendid Palm Beach International Airport, with its services for private planes and free landing for light and the service provided for sport and business flying the Lantana Airport, combine to encourage flying.

Another factor here that encourages the private pilot, is the wealth of good weather, the kind of weather that would make any airman happy. In fact, the weather in this area cording to Bureau officials is nearer perfection for flying more days in the year, than probably any other area in the more western hemisphere.

Many persons are now learning to fly light planes here, a few can be pointed out as being typical of those who the advanced from the light plane class to become real endusiasts of the air.

A good example of the private pilot in the Palm Beach area is Wiley R. Reynolds, Jr., president of the First National Bank in Palm Beach.

Another of the local pilots and aviation enthusiasts is Paul Butler, who generally is termed sportsman-pilot, but who actually makes flying these days an integral part of his business. This photograph was made in Honolulu on the first leg of an expeditionary flight he made across the Pacific in 1947.

Mr. Reynolds began flying in 1941, before business took so much of his time that he had to cut his flying time as a sport.

A true Sunday pilot at that time, every available moment was spent at the new hobby, but flying for fun was soon curtailed by the war.

As soon as the Civil Air Patrol was formed, his little Stinson went into the patrol pool, and all during the war a constant watch was kept on the shoreline.

Approximately 20 small craft from this area contributed to the effort and in the entire time only two ships were lost, one being Mr. Reynold's Stinson. The crash came 12 miles from shore near Ft. Pierce but the two occupants were rescued by navy craft.

After the war Mr. Reynolds continued to pilot his own plane, but when his business cares multiplied pleasure was cut to a minimum.

It was then he discovered his new twin engined Beach-craft could add precious hours to his leisure.

For instance, just recently, he and Mrs. Reynolds flew

The maze that is the instrument panel of a modern twin-engined plane is a familiar thing to Wiley R. Reynolds, Jr. As casual almost as the ordinary business executive who drives his car to the office is Mr. Reynolds when he clamps on the earphones and heads into the blue to make business contacts in other cities.

4,500 miles in two weeks, visiting banks from Colorado Springs to Tulsa, and incidentally getting vacation hours in between business engagements.

Quite apart from business was the interest of Mrs. Charles Weeks, Jr. in aviation—when she was only 15 and still Miss Pat Blair, she began training as a pilot.

When she was 16 and could solo, her one aim since child-hood had been realized. Then she really "fell in love with flying" and later married her instructor.

Now as a young matron, being a wife is the only love ahead of her love for flying. She flies Stinsons, Cubs, Aroncas, and PT-17's, mostly locally, but occasionally for long flights.

"I fly for the fun of it and love it just as much as when I first felt the freedom of flight. My husband and I are fortunate—we both feel the same about our hobby and his business," she said.

Another Palm Beach pilot, John H. Perry, Jr., has found that what began as a hobby and for pleasure reasons before the war had blossomed into a practical knowledge that is now strictly business.

Learning to fly as a sport, he quickly turned from the pleasure angle and also joined the Civil Air Patrol then formed to patrol Florida waters.

Later he went into the Army Air Force, flying in several theatres, principally with Air Transport.

A Palm Beach pilot who literally grew up flying is Mrs. Charles Weeks, who began flying at fifteen years of age and soloed at sixteen. She later married the man who taught her to fly and now the Weeks family makes up one of the flyingest families in the Palm Beach area.

Gone from the Palm Beach scene is the goggled-helmeted pilot of yesteryear. Instead you are likely to find the businessman-pilot, who, as Mr. and Mrs. John H. Perry, Jr., go to the airport dressed for a business appointment or engagements in a distant town. Mr. Perry pilots his own plane, a twin engined Beachcraft, and Mrs. Perry frequently accompanies him on trips.

At the conclusion of the war, with interest in aviation undiminished, he returned to private flying, but as in other cases, business cut pleasure flying to a minimum.

The necessity for quick contacts with various newspapers throughout the State and various offices about the country turned a sport into a very practical means of transportation.

Paul Butler's name was quite frequently preceded by "sportsman-pilot" in the past. With exploits such as a flight in a converted B-24 which he piloted to Honolulu on the first leg of an expeditionary flight to the Far East to check reports of a mountain there higher than Everest, then such a description of him was fitting.

Now, however, his flying is confined to business, and though he flies as much as ever, it is now for business reasons.

He has flown a variety of types, P-38's, A-26's, B-25's and Lockheed Lodestars. His present plane, a Bonanza, is equipped with the latest automatic pilot.

During the war he put his flying knowledge to use testing for the government and at present is called on for Aeronautical assistance.

Those mentioned are augmented by many others. Some are youngsters just learning to fly, others whose flights are strictly of the light plane grade. Still others are ex-pilots, whose own flying days are finished, but whose large, air yachts, flown by professional pilots, now dash hither and yon to deliver and return executives to or from the Palm Beaches, or to bring guests for visits here.

Norton Gallery, Ambitious and Diverse

The center of culture, so called, in a community is likely also to be called a bore. This, unfortunately, is a fact.

A look ahead at the Norton Gallery and School of Art for the schedule of activities will clearly show the events planned there are along the most modern lines in conception of a gallery of the Arts, related but diversified.

At the Gallery, the permanent collection of paintings, sculpture, oriental works (particularly the jade) and the lovely outdoor courtyard and beauty of the building are constant features.

This, however, is not enough for the museum of today. An active school of art flourishes with such instructors as Jose de Creeft, Eric Lundgren, Adolph Dehn and James Mallory Willson. In the atmosphere of the great artists of the past and present, the possibilities of the artist of the future are formed, molded and inspired.

An active Art League sponsors the activities at the Gallery, with membership consisting of artists and interested, appreciative and civic minded citizens.

On March 9 the thirty-third annual Palm Beach Art League Students and Members Exhibition will open and continue through the 29th. This show is open to all artists, requiring only that the work must be original and not have been shown previously in the Palm Beaches.

It will consist of paintings in water color, gouache, drawings and prints in one group and paintings in oil, tempera, encuastic and sculpture.

The showing on group one will close March 18, and the second will open March 20 to run through March 29.

Each year fine works have been displayed with entries from well-known artists from other sections as well as the Palm Beach area. Certainly, a large amount of Florida and Palm Beach lore, atmosphere and interest is displayed in the scenes and assures an interesting exhibition.

The results of training at the Norton School, and the ability of the individual student will be displayed from April

"Still Liife with Green Jar," an outstanding specimen of typical work of Henry Lee McFee, a master in the still life line, was acquired in 1947 and has become one of the best liked of the American School to be brought into the permanent Norton Collection.

2 to 15 when the Norton School of Art Annual will be shown.

This year's exhibition should be of particular interest as a result of the instruction and guidance of the superior artists—national figures in their lines—who have carried on the classes.

Approximately one hundred and ten students are now at the gallery and their divers works should bring an extensive and imaginative showing.

Students of Jose de Creeft will display their sculpture and pottery; those working with James Mallory Willson will display life drawing, painting and portraits; Adolph Dehn's instructees will exhibit casein and water colors, while outdoors landscapes and still life of those under the direction of Eric Lundgren will complete the show.

The last show of the season will be the works of the approximately eighty-five children who are studying at the Gallery.

These shows are alive with uninhibited imagination and calls for displays from their works have been requested from as far as Cooperstown, N. Y. This show will run April 20 to 29.

In the music line of the arts, the two final concerts are to present the world's foremost string quartet, The Budapest String Quartet, on March 7 and the Annual Norton Gallery Glee Club Concert April 2.

The Budapest String Quartet ("Budapest," although none of the four musicians comes from Budapest) will be making its first appearance in the Palm Beach area, though they have played from coast to coast since their American debut in 1930.

They are considered by a majority of critics to be among the foremost interpretors of chamber music in the world. In the last few years, even had the quartet not played concert dates, they would be widely known and appreciated through the numerous records that have kept them among the most popular classical recording artists in the country.

In the fifty-first concert since the formation of the "August in the City," by Edward Hopper is one of the more popular paintings with the visitors at the Gallery with its clean lines, honest appeal and realistic picturization combined with a modern approach to curves, spirals and straight lines. It was hung in the Gallery in 1947.

Norton Gallery Glee Club, this year's annual concert will feature the trained voices of forty members of the club.

To be held April 2, the concert will consist of classics, sea chanties, western songs and, their specialty, spirituals, according to Director Raymond Otis Hunter.

The Glee Club was formed in 1942 by Knight MacGregor and has contributed to the musical life of the community and to the special events of each person since. Mr. Hunter has directed the club since November, 1946.

Already outstanding in this area, the Norton Gallery Players are being mentioned as candidates for "The Florida State Theater," due to their fine nonprofessional work, experimental productions and extensive training program for all types of the theater.

The internationally acclaimed Noel Coward four-part playlet-production "Tonight at 8:30" is next on the calendar for staging at Norton Gallery. It will open March 12 and run through the week.

A theater workshop at the Norton Gallery is an integral part of the Players' work. Workshop training classes as well as actual production activities are carried on here.

In a season that has seen the production of such plays as "Portrait in Black," "Harvey" and "The Enchanted," it is almost certain that the next play, a clever and entertaining evening of sophistication, will continue the high standard and that whatever the two remaining plays of the season may be, they will be of the more interesting type. Holt Riddleberger is director of this phase of the activities at Norton.

The last set feature of the Palm Beach Art League is a film for members and guests of the League, a revival of the famous "As You Like It." The great films and art films shown this year have proven to be a most popular addition to the gallery activities.

These are in addition to the other activities that are primarily of interest to members of the League. Informal gatherings will be held at intervals for sketching and lecture demonstrations. Models, both costume and portrait, are provided for these.

Another innovation is the series of Gallery talks held on certain Sunday afternoons for discussion of the various sections and works of the Gallery, temporary and permanent.

The Norton Gallery is expertly equipped to lend an interesting and informative program relating to the arts, which the special events program highlights.

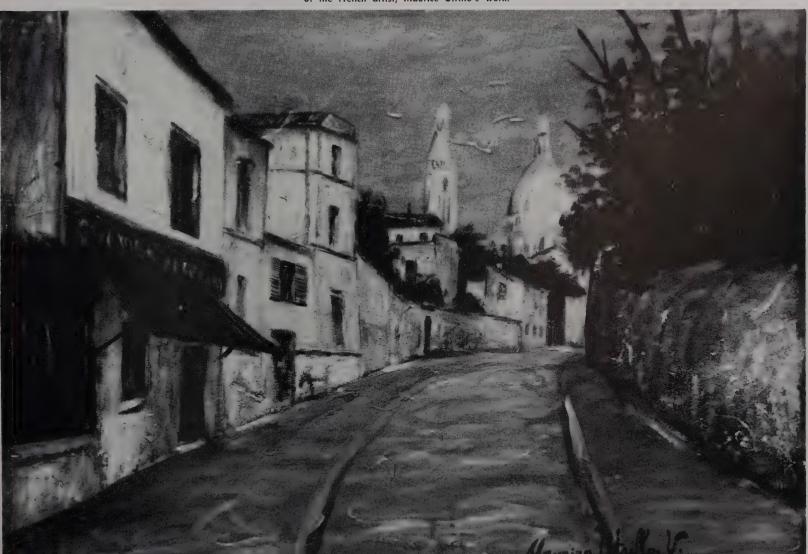

It is further enriched and enlivened by the Norton Collection of Paintings and Sculpture, housed in the seven galleries.

The beautiful Jade Room contains the Norton Collection of Chinese Art, the Stanley Charles Nott Collection of Jade, the Addison Mizner Collection of Cricifixes and the Elizabeth Calhoun Norton Collection of Antique Jewelry.

Activities this year have included many versions and concepts of art, from a display of plastic ice trays in a beauty-utility show to the magnificent paintings of the permanent collection.

The Gallery is open the year round and, although during the season activities reach their high point, a constructive 12-month schedule is arranged to keep interest in and advance of the arts alive. Not a narrow, dated interest in the arts, but such that will appeal to many types, whose ideas of beauty and type of art may vary, but who are devoted to the idea that life without beauty would be death.

Among the original Norton Collection to be hung at the Gallery is the quiet and serene "Rue de Montmartre," a traditional French painting and a splendid example of the French artist, Maurice Utrillo's work.

Florida Caverns...an underground wonderland

COUNTED AMONG THE WONDERS wrought by Nature on the North American continent are the Florida Caverns which form an underground wonderland up in the northwest part of the state near Marianna.

The third largest park in the state, now open for use, these caves which are a part of the 1,187-acre tract, are among the most unique in the entire country and comparable in interest to the Carlsbad Caverns or Mammoth Cave.

Within the park are many caves, large and small, many known for years and still others yet to be discovered. Beautiful in some instances, weird in others, they are all well-lighted, and trail for miles underground presenting all kinds of fantastically life-like nature-made formations — a white chamber of people in prayer before an altar . . . the Waterfall Room where stalactites and stalagmites have united to form columns that look like frozen waterfalls . . .

Weird faces and figures that may be seen on careful scrutiny of this photo are a result of merging stalactites. Such intergrowth is the result of a rather even and general flow of water. But sometime after the intertwining formation was accomplished, rapid issuing of ground water, concentrated at one point, created the tubular deposits. The big tubes are made by rapid evaporation along the outer edges of the drops of water that hang to stalactites before dropping to the floor of the cavern.

the turnip patch, grape vineyard, a cathedral room with pipe organ and pews—all of it the work of Nature, in upheavels, downheavels, convulsions, caprices and change throughout ten million years or more.

Above the caverns there grows a forest of great diversification and striking beauty—a collaboration of North and South in flora and fauna.

And as though borrowed from New England, and set smack in the center of this sub-tropical paradise of the Gulf Coast, one sees the mighty oak and graceful maple within a stone's throw of a live-oak hammock and slash pine forest; and on friendly terms are the evergreen magnolia and slippery-elm—the latter having been used by Yankees for a demulcent long ago, before miracle drugs replaced home remedies.

The intriguing Florida Caverns are cemeteries of the past—and Florida is the child of the sea. The rocks composing its land were formed directly on the floor of the ocean, geologists devoting their lives to such study declare.

The caverns with their arresting formations of rock show that they were many times raised above and below the sea in the geologic past, by land movements. And the rocks that create the caves were formed from the hard shells of animals that lived in the seas.

As the animals died their shells accumulated on the floor of the ocean where they were covered again and again by others until finally hardened into lime rock.

These fossils as geologists call them are remains representing cemeteries of many millions of years, and interestingly enough the same process is still going on along most of our coastal areas and sea bottoms. Such formations are also found many miles from the oceans as we know them today—even in states of the mid-west, testifying to where the seas have been in the past.

It is natural to wonder how scientists can be so sure

This is "Ferdinand"—a little ossified. The formation resembling the lovable bull in American lore is a block of limestone that fell from the roof of the cave. The horns are small stalagmites.

Non-objective—But not by man. A little sculpture on the part of Mother Nature, the "Waterfall Room," of the Caverns shows stalactites and stalagmites uniting to create columns. Notice the resemblance in some to frozen waterfalls. The long stalactites are hollow.

these limestones were formed in the sea. But if upon visiting the Florida Caverns, or upon a return visit, you will look closely at the walls and ceilings, you will find shells of scallops and other clams imbedded in them. The most common of all, is oddly, the oldest of all—flat shells about the size of barley seeds and thin flat discs about the size of dimes and quarters. They are called Foraminifern and related to some of the parasites that cause disease.

As rain water entering the rocks from the surface makes its way downward filling completely all the pores of the rock at some depth, it acts as a slow solvent to increase the size of the openings, connecting them to form a continuous system of channels.

Then as more water continues to drip, and as it continued to drip over the past millions of years, deposits of calcium created the stalactites and stalagmites and numerous other formations.

It is natural to wonder if these caverns were formed under water how it is they may be visited today, and how it is possible to walk through them.

Nature's brand of beauty is often fantastic. Here ground water cascading down a gentle limestone face was irregularly ponded, with the evaporation along the edges causing the small terraces.

Cave formations in the "Turnip Patch." The stalagmite on the right is almost joined with a stalactite. If it does, it will make a column. The grape-like clusters in the upper foreground result when the flow of water is so slow that all of it evaporates from the ceilings and deposits its mineral load there.

If rocks formed under marine waters are exposed on the land surface today, it is obvious that the land has been raised out of the sea, or the sea has lowered. From geologic evidence, it is known that Florida has been rising since late geologic eras. The elevation is believed to be caused by downwarping at the mouth of the Mississippi River where thousands of box-car loads of sediment are dumped each day, accompanied by adjustments in the earth's crust and the elevation of land areas surrounding the delta of the Mississippi.

A second factor also contributes to dryness of the caves. We have always heard that ice covers the North and South poles, but it is not well known that if all this ice melted, the level of the sea as it is known today would be higher by about 110 feet.

If all polar ice melted, the Chipole River at Florida Caverns would become a salt bay, Marianna a seaport town, and the beach moved in close proximity to the park.

As a matter of record, all of the surficial deposits making up the large part of the land surface of Florida, were created and shaped during the geologic past—from one to ten million years, when ice piled up on the poles and moved down over lower latitudes.

The Florida Caverns have held interest since earliest days and in the writings of Friar Barreda, member of the first overland expedition of the Spaniards, mention was made of them. Also that the Indians knew and found use for the caves is also well known to geologists and historians. Ashes from fires, dead for many years, flint arrowheads, and animal bones, and Indian pottery found in the caves, proves by their antiquity that the Indians used the caverns for shelter long before the coming of the Spaniards.

And in our own time, they aided white men—when Jackson made his punitive expedition against the Indians in 1818, a large band of them escaped and took refuge in the caves. Likewise during the Civil War when Union soldiers enroute to Pensacola were resisted by Confederates who were unable to serve with the Army, they hid their children, wives and slaves in the caves while dealing with the Yankees.

Florida Caverns State Park occupies a strategic place in Florida. At present it is the state's most westerly park and serves as a gateway to the state park system for tourists entering Florida from the northwest and west.

Washington Letter

Dear Dora:

M SORRY YOU COULDN'T BE HERE for popular "Maggie" Cowell's smart dinner party given at the Sulgrave Club in honor of former Ambassador and Senora Augusto Dillon of Ecuador. The Dillons have been wined and dined by many on their visit here from Ecuador, but this was one of the best parties.

Those Sulgrave supper dance affairs which this was aren't just stuffy club affairs. They are very gay with chic, youngish, well-dressed people at almost every table and there's an atmosphere of one's own home.

Ambassador and Mme. Munthe Morgenstierne were the ranking guests, then there was Lady Lewis with her portrait like beauty, Rosa Ponselle who adds zest to any party, Mrs. Frank Freyer of Denver, Colo., Mrs. Eleanor Camperio of Milan, Italy, Lt. Comdr. O. N. A. Cecil of England, Count Ilinski, former military attache of Poland, and Flavio Beriera.

Well known Washington hostess, Mrs. Harold Walker, rave a small, select cocktail party for the Dillons also, Minister Alfonso Moscoso of Ecuador, and his wife, entertained the Dillons too at a large reception at which the new Ecuadorian Ambassador Penheherra and his American born wife were also guests of honor. Senora de Moscoso is the sister of the President of Ecuador, Galo Plaza, who was for three towars Ecuador's Ambassador here.

The aforementioned Mrs. Thomas Cowell and Rosa Ponselle were among the notables who made the benefit Bal Boheme a great success. It was on our iciest night during the worst storm in years, yet people came and stayed until three am. Sixty representatives of the United Nations were present at this 30th annual fete which is sponsored by the Arts flub of Washington to raise money for hospitals in the district.

Exotic Mme. Corea, wife of the Ceylonese Ambassador, and the Ambassador, added color to the Felix de Weldon's table. De Weldon is the modest, but famous, sculptor of that huge statue of our boys raising the flag at Iwo Jima. At the de Weldon's table also were: Assistant Secretary of State and Mrs. Willard Thorp, as well as Administrative Assistant to the President and Mrs. Donald Dawson who came back from Florida not long ago.

Really stunning and authentic costumes were worn by: Mrs. James M. Minifie who came as Mme. Butterfly, Miss Linda Verrill who was a knockout as a Javanese dancer, and Mrs. Wade Haislip, wife of the General, who came in a Tyrolean costume that was the gift of Princess de Rethy, wife of King Leopold of Belgium. It was General Haislip and his 15th Army corps who released King Leopold and the Princess from a prison in Austria, near the end of the war.

Three years of independence for Ceylon was celebrated at the Ceylonese Embassy early in February by the Ceylonese Ambassador and Mme. Corea.

To be at the Embassy that evening was like taking a trip to the Orient. Colored lights framed the doorway, the subtle fragrance of incense fills the rooms, flames curl in open, tall brass standards here and there, (if I recall correctly, to keep the devils away) and ropes of creamy white jasmine festoon the mirrors and doorways and cast out a lovely perfume.

There were many glittering saris to add to the scene, Mme. Corea in a lovely one herself of the sheerest gold cloth. There was a tempting array of Far Eastern dishes at two buffets. The most unusual of which were platters of the tiniest shrimp in a most exotic, highly spiced sauce. With the shrimp came the strange light-as-a-feather infinitesimal noodles called "string hopper" which take three days to make.

Colonel and Mrs. Robert Guggenheim have had a string of Washington visitors down to their plantation "Poco Sabo" in South Carolina. There enthusiastic hunter, Robert, sees that his guests have a perfect hunting holiday. His beautiful wife, Polly, is an expert shot too. The latest people from Washington to leave for the Guggenheim estate were the Minister of Luxenbourg and Mme. Le Gallais.

Off fcr a wonderful cruise on the Arthur Gardner's yacht Moana II went five of Washington's pretty young matrons for part of the month of February. The hostess, who was the former Joan Gardner, now Mrs. A. Britton Browne, flew down with her guests Mrs. Henry T. Allen 3d, Mrs. Frank G. Addison 3d, Mrs. John W. Davidge, Jr. and Mrs. James Whyper.

A year and a half ago when post-deb Joan Gardner and Mr. Browne were married at one of the year's most fashionable weddings at Watch Hill, R. I., the couple left on their honeymoon on the same yacht for a cruise in southern waters.

The yacht is an 85' beauty decorated in excellent taste by Mrs. Gardner herself. It has been anchored at the Miami Boat Club. The girls planned to cruise around the Florida Keys and anchor later for a stay in Palm Beach.

guest of Mrs. Wessen Seyburn of Detroit, in her lovely home at Palm Beach. Mr. Gardner, who was former assistant to the Secretary of the Treasury, expected to join his wife by February 15th. The Gardners will do some cruising about themselves, and plan to go to Cuba. During the Easter holidays cute little Susie Gardner, the namesake of her mother, will join the family at Hobe Sound with her school chum, Miss Katrina Kanzler. The latters' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Kanzler of Grosse Pointe, are wintering at their Hobe Sound home.

Also enjoying the sunshine of Palm Beach are: Mrs. Clarence V. Kimball and her attractive daughters, Mrs. Kimball Dieuaide and Mrs. John Spencer Davis. Others who expected to visit Palm Beach before going on to Cuba are Mr. and Mrs. Henry S. Huidekoper.

A recent interesting international dinner and get-together of music lovers was hosted by Mme. Erkin, herself a well-known singer, and her husband, the Turkish Ambassador. The party was given in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Lauritz Melchoir who were in town briefly.

Beautiful Anita Baraibar, with her dark eyes and fair skin, daughter of Minister and Madam German Baraibar of Spain, came north from their home in Cuba to be in the wedding of Marquis Pepe Belmonte and Teresa Muniz in New York. She spent three weeks there, then came on to Washington to be the house guest of Margaret Thors, daughter of the Minister of Iceland and Mme. Thors. There were a host of parties given in Anita's honor, one of the largest being the one hosted by the Thors at the Icelandic Legation.

Miss Claire Snow gave a party for Anita and the Countess de Morel, daughter of the Swedish Agricultural Attache and Mme. Bendz. Countess Morel sailed on the Liberte soon after to join her husband in Paris where the couple has an apartment near the Etoile.

Also leaving from New York on the Liberte was Miss Carolyn Nash of this city. Miss Nash who has crossed the Atlantic some 30 times or more, considers Paris as much her home as the Capital. Before sailing she was feted at a dinner in New York by Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Findley.

Briefly in town from Vienna was good looking bachelor Parr Johnson who is a consultant to ECA. Parr spent three months in Paris, Vienna, and London this fall and will come back within two months from this latest trip to Vienna. He told me that George and Jane Abel who are now living in Paris, left just about the time he did to spend a month or so in America.

Mrs. Webb Cook Hayes 3d of this city, was hostess at a large tea at her attractive residence in Chevy Chase, Md. recently. Mrs. Hayes plans to leave for Palm Beach on March 1st with her little son where she will spend several weeks with Mr. Hayes' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Webb C. Hayes 2d, of Fremont, Ohio.

By the way, did you happen to run into the friendly bachelor, Marvin Braverman, when he was in Palm Beach in February? He is a well known attorney here and the rather special beau of Margaret Truman. While in Palm Beach he stayed with Mr. Joseph Martineau who now has the house of the late Sir Harry Oakes.

You will probably see attractive Mrs. Thomas Taylor who has left Washington to spend several weeks with her aunt, Mrs. S. W. Kauffman, in Delray. Her husband who is an executive with TWA here is in Paris where he will be for some weeks on a business trip.

Another couple from this area spending a good deal of time at Fort Lauderdale and Palm Beach are Mr. and Mrs.

Mrs. G. C. S. Corea, wife of Ambassador of Celon and Mrs. Felix de Weldon preparing for the "Bal Boheme."

Joel Broyhill who own the yacht "Sea Queen." The Broyhills have a home in nearby Alexandria, Va.

Costa Rica's new Ambassador Oreamuno and his very beautiful wife, Maria, entertained at a reception the other afternoon. Something of a housewarming for their newly decorated Embassy. Maria was stunning in a gray fringe dress against the embassy's rose damask walls. There were red-hot "empanadas" served with the cocktails, a marvelous buffet of Latin American dishes for the late stayers. Old friends were there, many of whom the Ambassador had known in Washington when he was a young bachelor attache here.

Received a very belated Christmas card from former Ambassador Ala of Iran with a photograph of the handsome Shah of Iran on one side and his future bride on the other. She is Sorayya Bakhtiary, who is half Iranian and half German. She was educated in Switzerland and speaks French, German and English. The bride to be had a fresh, young, slightly too fat appearance and is not at all like her sensationally beautiful predecessor, Empress Fawzia, whom the Shah divorced because they had no sons.

The New Zealand Ambassador and Lady Berendsen honored their Prime Minister, Sidney George Holland, at a large reception the middle of February. The Prime Minister has been in London for the recent meeting of Commonwealth Prime Ministers and is enroute back to New Zealand.

So much for now, Dora. Console yourself that you are down there. Even though they say Florida has been cold, it couldn't be one-tenth as disagreeable as it has been here these past weeks.

The "night and day", a smart two-way coiffure styled by Pierre of Elizabeth Arden. Very feminine and casual for day wear and to accent formal evening clothes, add a chignon. A very feminine and flattering hair-do, generally becoming to all types of hair and personalities.

White pique with suntop fitted bodice and gracefully swirled skirt; from the resort collection of Frances Brewster. Note the smartly cuffed bodice, jeweled buttons and black velvet belt. A matching white pique "skull cap" completes the attractive costume.

Diamond ensemble by L. Barton Brookov, in the Palm Beach Hotel. Dazzling necklace of emerald-cut baguettes and pear-shaped diamonds; harmonizing earrings. Modern-designed clip accenting decolletage is fashioned of baguettes and pear-shaped stones. Twin diamond bracelets stressing smart simplicity and ring of pearls and diamonds, complete the dazzling accessories.

"Lace Alure," from the collection of Caltex of California and designed by Howard Greer. It is cotton broadcloth overprinted with a Chantilly lace pattern, featuring front panel of elasticized satin; matching beach coat. Available at Finchley's, who also have the entire Greer collection.

The baku profile chapeau of pale pink is trimmed with purple velvet and violets . . . this motif echoed at the waistline.

Gold and diamonds are the predominate accessory as perhayed by the Cartier necklass of double strand gold beads with diamond and sapphire motifs; matching gold and diamond pendant earclips; diamond and gold flying bird clip; mat effect double gold bracelet with diamond lever clasp; diamond and gold dome-shaped ring. The cigarette case is in gold with sapphire sides and the handbag, a Persian print design with gold motif.

Scouting The Shops

ALWAYS ORCHIDS: Worldcraft Shop on Worth Avenue is featuring a novel and exciting item for both dress and decor—an indestructible orchid. In twenty-five varieties and so lifelike that many come to purchase what they think are live flowers, the lovely imitations are made by one family in Iguitos, Peru, from an underwater fibrous plant. Wonderful whether worn or for an exciting tropic note in the home, they are typical of the many novel items from about the globe sold at Worldcraft.

SLEEK, SMART AND ENGLISH: The latest of the automobile imports, the British "Javelin Jupiter," a 78 horsepower, three-seater convertible, is the latest to join the foreign car display at Palm Beach Foreign Motors. Quite powerful for its size, and an eye-catcher in looks, it was introduced here for the first time outside New York. The German "Volkswagon" is interesting, too.

SCITS EVERYBODY: Ladd's Shop in the Casino at the Breakers has made their nylon bathing suit selection extensive Flows and Robin's Egg Blue in tiny size ten to a slimming selection of Hunter's Green and Navy in size 46. Also. Ladd's carries just about everything in tennis, yachting and welking needs.

MANTUNG FOR SPRING: Oriental only in the lovely fabric, something by the Sport and Travel Shop are of cloths of Shantung in every color of the rainbow, but tailored with the smart samplicity as if wool were being used. The one- or three-button, matching or contrasting blouses are exceptionally trim.

KITCHEN CURTAIN TO MANSIONS: Worrell's has a reputation of managing the decor of the larger homes, but their service is so extensive that their advice has been used on the selection of a pair of kitchen curtains and a single bathmat. The decorators specialize in traditional, modern and French provincial.

DON'T TURN YOUR BACK: Knives with stainless steel blades and beautiful handles made by the famous Case Company are the latest additions to the "Over 4,000 Items" store—Charles E. Soll Hardware. The complete line is stocked, from pocket knives to the largest carving knives.

PEARL COLLECTION ARRIVES: A large portion of one of the largest collections of cultured pearls ever to be acquired by a firm in this country is now being displayed at Marcus and Co. and may be seen as chokers, bracelets, earrings and necklaces. Lovely pearls in exciting forms offer a great variety for selection.

AMBASSADOR'S SILVER: An exciting acquisition is now displayed at Douglas Lorie Antiques. Just unpacked is a silver flatware service for thirty-six made by silversmith Paul Storr in 1816 for the Viscount d'Abernon to take with him for state banquets while he served as ambassador to France. Each article worthy of a museum, the entire service is exquisite.

SEAMSTRESS ATTENTION TO CUSTOM BEDDING: If the decor of the bedroom calls for petticoats on the bedspreads or that they be tailored a la Bond Street, Moseley's Palm Beach is now offering custom work to the needs of the customers, or spreads customed styled but already in stock.

JEWELS FOR TIME: Few watches ever ticked in more glamorous surroundings than at Greenleaf and Crosby Co. On each side of the lovely dial, fancy cut baguette and round diamonds scintillate in a glorification of the simple matter of telling time. For variation and color, in another, star sapphires are set on each side.

LONGER AND MORE COLORFUL IS THE LADY'S HAIR: Joseph's of Southampton has found the Palm Beach lady is going ahead with the new spring hair styles—longer, more waves and less curls, and a stress on lighter hair shades, with touches of red or the smokey hues.

FOR THE MAN IN YOUR LIFE: There is probably no place where hand-knitted socks are more useful than here in sports-minded Palm Beach. Standard plaids, directed patterns or original designs are the perfect complement to the male sports outfit. Instructions, ideas, designs, needles and yarn from Evelyn Curtis Knit Shop, can make you a favorite with him.

A TOUCH OF FRANCE: From France where packaged and produced, comes the fabulously fine Christian Dior perfumes and toilet water to be dispensed exclusively on the Avenue by the Everglades Pharmacy.

DISTINCTION IN SATINWOOD: The St. James Galleries is showing a stunning satinwood hanging cabinet, English circa 1785, with a most unusual concave front. The beauty of the cabinet would allow it to display the most rare and expensive of china in perfect harmony.

BORN WITH A SILVER CUP: Although an item small in size among all the other lovely silver, brass, china and glass antiques at the Palm Beach Antiques, one of the nicest offerings is a baby's cup, of solid silver, gold dipped, which was made by Gorham and Co. for the St. Louis World's Fair and sent to France for enameling.

NURSERY A GARDEN: Almost an arboratorium is the nursery of the Island Landscape Co. Winter visitors are coming to the nursery to see the 1,000 different examples of local flora, ranging from tiny half-inch cactus to large Royal Palms and Rubber Trees, which are used in their landscaping work.

SLIM SKIRTS, SHORT JACKETS: The slim skirt is the newest and dominating feature of the spring suits at the Mme. Mogabgab Shop and the tiny spring furs are among the smartest spring notes. A Navy creation featuring a scarf of Navy lined with purple and violets is a dream.

THREE MASTERWORKS AT PLUMMER'S: "Le-Pont-Au-Chang," "Biarritz" and "Paris At Night" by the famous French contemporary artist Ludolphs Liberts, whose work has hung in the Louvre Gallery, Paris, are now displayed at Plummer's and are an important addition to the Worth Avenue shop. They are included in a gallery of oils which the shop handles in addition to the fine chinaware.

JOSEPHINE NEVER HAD THIS: As the cool windy days fade into the past and the need for a hand lotion for that purpose joins the past, another great use for Empress Josephine Lotion comes out—for care after sunburn and softening after sports for that smoothness that loveliness on spring evenings requires. The Worth Avenue Apothecary has it.

As ethereal as a breeze . . . this Capri original fashioned of layer upon layer of pink net over white, drifting from a fan-shaped bodice, completely encrusted with pearl and rhinestone embroidery. From the resort collection at McDonald's and an ideal companion for important Palm Beach dancing evenings.

A French Panorama at the Worth Avenue Gallery

SPANNING A HUNDRED YEARS in presenting its annual French panorama, the Worth Avenue Gallery show current now and to remain on view until mid-March presents examples of approximately 14 artists and is entitled "Courbet to Chagall."

In chronological order others represented include: Frantin-Latour, Toulouse Latrec, Pissarro, Mary Cassatt, Renoir, Redon, Degas, Monet, Picasso, Matisse, and Utrillo.

One of the most distinguished shows ever to be presented by the Worth Avenue Gallery directors, Mrs. Duggett Benson and Mrs. Archibald Rayner, it comprises a collection from the firm of M. Knoedler & Company.

The Courbet, earliest of the group is a romantic, turbulent landscape entitled, "The Cascade," with the Chagall, done in 1950 called, "Bouquet a St. Jean."

Courbet a forerunner of the Impressionists who died poor and almost deserted in 1877 began the reactionary movement against the insipidity of the classicists from David to Ingres. He loved the old masters but his palette was enveloped with a note of freshness and energy. He was revolutionery in proving that the picture painted directly from nature, and stripped of literary intention had a right to be painted on the same scale as historical or subject paintings and thus far ahead of his time, brought jeers and criticism.

It is ironical that paintings by Courbet submitted to the Salon and refused, today hang in the Louvre.

"Rambler Roses" is the Frantin-Latour work. It pictures a full spray of white rambler roses tinged with pale pink and is among the best examples of superb still-life work by this artist.

The Henri Toulouse-Lautrec watercolor drawing is one of the brilliant and colorful French painters more conservative works. Showing a bust-length profile of a woman, the drawing also includes a child, at left who faces the observer.

"PAYSAGE A OSNY," BY C. PISSARRO

Work by Camille Pissarro presents a watercolor and oil, the latter a restful landscape, the watercolor, of simplified palette shows two girls on a river bank with an abundance of sunlight enveloping their figures.

A charming pastel of a little girl with her dog, a subject very close to the heart of the artist is Mary Cassatt's contribution to the exhibition.

In addition she was a fine artist herself, exhibited with the Impressionists and followed their methods in her own work. She is most famous for her pictures of mothers and children—her favorite theme being the intimate relationship between a mother and her child as seen in the various occupations of the day under varying circumstances.

Two nudes are the work of twentieth century artists Matisse and Degas with a "Study For Mother and Child," by Renoir, saguine on tan paper heightened with white chalk.

Henri Matisse a contemporary French painter, started his career as a barrister but when he went to Paris in 1892 to obtain his degree, his love for art caused him to change his profession. He studied the styles of the great artists in the Louvre and elsewhere — Italian primitives, Negro and Oriental art, and was especially impressed with the latter's expressive simplicity.

His style is a reaction against copying the old master's although it has been said that his own expressive distortions are the result of a thorough acquaintance with El Greco. He paints with verve and is in accord with the accepted color traditions of the Impressionists.

Degas also was a student of law who when he saw some of Ingres' work resolved to devote himself to painting. He studied widely from the Ecole des Beaux Arts to schools in Rome and back again to Paris. In 1874 he exhibited with the Impressionists and it is sometimes asked whether he was an Impressionist. Often opinion varies although he is generally counted as one because of his lighting effects, his concise drawing and freshness of movement.

"LANDSCAPE," BY P. A. RENOIR

Renoir, a painter, engraver, and sculptor was advised by Gounod, a friend of the family who recognized his musical talent, to pursue that subject. But instead the young Frenchman, son of a tailor, became apprenticed to a ceramic shop at the age of 13 with the definite purpose in mind of becoming a painter.

When 20 years of age he was admitted to the studio of Gleyre and there became acquainted with Sisley, Monet and Bazille, and later, Diaz and Cezanne. He was a friend of the Impressionists but refused to accept the pragmatic approach. From his earliest interest in tone he put emphasis on color without the sacrifice of light. His hues are brilliant and his paintings reflect his joy of living.

Although he gained reputation with the years, by 1877 the only means of livelihood Renoir could find in the field of painting was in doing portraits. Finally he held auctions and sold the greater part of his paintings thus bettering his financial status which allowed him to travel extensively. He spent his last years in Burgundy where still painting at the time of his death in 1919, he did so by having his brush strapped to his hand because it was otherwise useless as a result of arthritis.

The "mother and child" sketches in the current Worth Avenue Gallery show are of Mme. Renoir and their eldest son Pierre. The first version was painted in 1885 and is presently in the possession of Claude Renoir.

where it is lost behind a hedge. On the far side of the path is a plain small structure beyond which is a clump of trees with church spire rising above them.

Finally the Utrillo paintings round out the collection—a fine oil of a typical Paris street scene in the early 1920's and a small gouache of the Montmartre.

art for 40 years. His paintings hang in every gallery that pretends to cover the modern era and in leading private collections throughout Europe and America. They hang also in many thousands of "Main Street" sitting rooms for Utrillo's work in reproductions is popular among people generally, who like to look at something pleasant on the wall.

of the period, which also exploited sloping shoulders, tiny waistlines and voluminous hooped-skirts. Stiff silk and lace of contrasting color were effectively combined for this creation, with accent on elegance.

Fashion Trends

Through the Centuries

If ALL THE COMMENTS REGARDING STYLES had been recorded down through the years, they would undoubtedly have the same theme, "no period of fashion has been more beautiful, charming, practical, flattering or smarter than ours."

Delving into research on the subject, you will find that fashions of every era have something to say. It is an interesting "conversation," replete with oblique references, subtle inflections and historical significance. As a matter of fact, fashions have been called the fingerprints of history. As Anatole France once remarked, "show me the clothes of a country and I will write its history."

All of which proves conclusively that fashion is not the capricious jade she is oftentimes branded, but a vital force with respect for tradition, featuring a forward look and modernized by current world events. The vitality of fashion, persisting through changes of periods and form, is of tremendous significance to the present and future of creative design.

Of all the many influences reflected in modern dress, authorities declare that nothing has ever surpassed the Greek. Their classic simplicity, flowing graceful lines and drapery and the soft easily manipulated materials, were all commendable and still are the inspiration for contemporary designing; especially for formal evening gowns.

The early part of the 16th Century, the Elizabethan per-

This dress of wool embroidered with silver-gilt thread, reflects the French taste of the late 17th Century, when clothes became more modest and conservative than they had been for quite some time; necklines higher, sleeves longer. Skirts were exaggerated, bustles were popular and cascading trains, an important style note.

iod, exploited the most uncomfortable clothes that women were ever made to endure. The dresses of heavy fabrics were over-loaded with lavish embroidery and jewels; corsets were made of iron; starched high neck ruffs were actually torturous. However, they were considered smart at the time and have inspired modern creations of a more conservative nature.

And, conversely, at no time in history have lines been so generally becoming to all types of feminine figures as those of the First Empire, under Napoleon. The usual silhouette of Josephine's day comprising square neckline, high waist and flowing skirt, was flattering to a variety of women because the lines were so fluid; the basic design could easily be adapted to suit the individual figure. The "poke bonnet" and soft coiffures of this era were also flattering and feminine.

With time marching on and fashions taking their place in America, the era just preceding the Civil War has been conceded to be the most romantic in fashion history. Women have never been so completely feminine in their costumes . . . slim waistline, bouffant skirt, flattering decolletage, beautiful materials.

The ugliest, most distorted and unhealthy clothes of all time, made their appearance in 1870. The sleeves were too tight and ill-fitting; back bustles were ungainly; coiffures were terrible and hats worse; the elongated and rounded bodices were most unbecoming. Such styles became a legend and conversation piece!

Fashions of yesteryear do more than indicate the timespan of bygone vogues. They reveal many inheritances recognizable in today's styles and afford a wealth of suggestions for new creative designs. For instance, modern women are always amazed at the simplicity and logic of the ancient Greek women, who could make a dress appropriate for any occasion or section of the country, by simply changing the draping of the single length of fabric which made up the costume.

Although Oriental clothes have not been adapted literally by the Western world to any great extent, fashion does go to the East for motif and color inspiration; especially Persia, India and China. As a matter of fact, oriental motifs will be found interpreted in all periods, in all types of fabrics, in all countries. In some cases, the adaptation has almost obscured the original source, but usually may be detected in spite of the sometimes ingenious methods used to obtain the effective results.

Through several important eras of history, fashions were dictated by the courts, in France and England. Since the atmosphere of the courts was usually elegant, luxurious, extravagant, light-hearted and gay, the styles reflected these characteristics. Numerous interesting and fantastic fashions were originated during these periods, although each reign did not produce a completely new silhouette, or make fashion history.

Outstanding among these fabulous royal fashions, a number of which have been translated into American "ball gowns" were: the three silhouettes developed during reign

Meet "thunder," the 1951 counterpart of the 1858 "cailing costume." of Louis XIV, which exploited the full overskirt, (la robe) tucked up over an underskirt (la jupe) and cascading into a train; very low square decolletage; numerous bows as trimming for both bodice and skirt; gay and rich aprons as part of costume; panniers or framework in basket shape worn on both hips, made of whalebone, straw, cord and tapes; elbowlength sleeves trimmed with ruffles and lace. Great impetus was given fashion at this time, by the extravagant fetes and balls given at Versailles and Marly.

The French couture, who has dominated the world-fashion scene for so many years, was introduced into the style picture by the noted Empress Eugenie. Charles Worth, an Englishman, headed the long list which is constantly increasing, and which is now being given keen competition by American dress designers. This surprising turn of events started with the second World War and at present, American styles have become so important and worthwhile that a number of the big names in French dressmaking are coming to the United States for inspiration; especially for sports clothes.

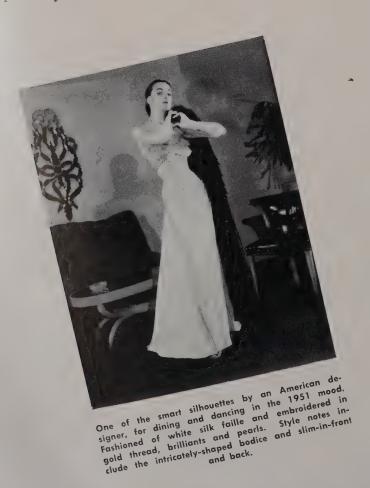

Recurring cycles of fashion follow a definite pattern and the rise and fall of the hemline, waistline and sleeve-length, as well as the contours of the silhouette, are guided by certain signposts in style history and occur at planned intervals. Which again proves that fashion trends really make sense if you know fashion history and are not the mere whims of some neurotic designers. The style vagaries furnish the spice which gives added interest to a vogue or trend.

The "new look" of several years ago, for example, which featured the ultra-long skirts for daytime, followed a direction that had been taken before. This may be proved by comparing the ankle-length dresses of 1830 with the extended skirts which lightly skimmed the floor in the 1840's and swept in trains and ruffled furbelows in the 60's and 70's. From a timid rise in hem-length the following decade, they fell again to the rippling and sweeping skirts that featured the hour-glass silhouette of the 1890's and the turn of the century.

Rounded shoulders which have been replacing the square versions for the past several years, also date back to a vogue of 1830. The same is true of the current sleeve interest and bateau and shawl necklines. Narrow shoulders and bodices generally accompany extended lower silhouettes, as in the bouffant dancing gowns of 1951, which are a modernized interpretation of the hoop skirts of the 1850's and 60's. The bustle which appears like a parasite on the hipless back, in today's fashions, is an interesting contrast to the bustle of the 1880's, which accompanied an elongated, form-fitted front waist. Now, form-fitting means just that, but back in the 19th Century, it was achieved by severe and torturous corseting.

Since there are suggestions from hundreds of different eras welded into the fashions of today, the result of countless generations striving for something distinctive in the wardrobe, it would seem that current styles should be the acme of beauty and practibility. As every generation must have thought "clothes of the present are the best ever designed, because they are adaptable to our designs for living."

And, it is the women of the world and not the designers who really create a vogue. Designers can only suggest new ideas and trends but whether or not they are generally accepted, is the deciding factor in a new silhouette becoming a popular style.

An American interpretation for 1951; Gold tulle over the medium for the medium for lame of the same dazzling color, is the medium for lame of the same dazzling this had with a cascade of lame of the same skirt, finished with a stole-effect. The gracefully full veils the shoulders in stole-effect. Tulle veils the shoulders in stole-effect. Tulle veils the shoulders and lame of the shoulders are gold leaves. For important palm Beach dancing ideal costume!

Everglades Club

MID-SEASON ACTIVITY IS REFLECTED in the smart Everglades Club, with the numerous dinner-dances, benefit balls, golf and tennis matches, fashion show-luncheons, vaudeville-dinners and the informal dining and dancing parties, which are featured on the Golf Terrace this year.

Deviating from the usual formality which distinguishes most of the Club festivities, was the Comic Strip Ball, held in the Orange Gardens, when the guests were asked to come dressed as their favorite comic strip character. The decorations were also "in character," featuring huge posters of "the funnies"; cellophane bags of bright colored balloons which were released at midnight.

The Everglades Club Meyer Davis Orchestra under the direction of Billie Marshall, were dressed as Lil Abner. Adding interest to the dancing, were a number of square dances under the supervision of Gene Gowing, one of the country's outstanding "callers."

Arthur Lake and wife Patricia "Blondie" Lake, with Daisy the dog and her five pups, entertained with their "Dagwood and Blondie" skit of the radio and television.

Prizes for the most authentic and amusing costumes were won by Mrs. James Dinsmore Tew 2d, as "Daisy Mae";

Mr. and Mrs. Martin Lee entertained a group of their friends, including: Mr. and Mrs. Robert Vernon Rasmussen, Mr. and Mrs. David Graham Legget, 3rd, Mr. and Mrs. James Harris, Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Street, Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Simpson and Mr. and Mrs. Paul von Gontard.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Russell Maguire were hosts to: Mr. and Mrs. William Benjamin of Greenwich, Conn., Mr. and Mrs. Leo Francis Ready, Lord and Lady Ennisdale and Mr. and Mrs. John W. Kiser.

Mr. and Mrs. Bernard J. McKenna had in their party: Cmdr. and Mrs. Webb Hays, Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Mitchell and Mr. J. Rhoades Berdon.

Guests of Mr. and Mrs. Edmund P. Cassell were: their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. William Lee Taylor of Germantown, Tenn., and Mr. and Mrs. Walter G. Garritt of Newton, Mass.

The Mardi Gras Ball, held at the Club for the benefit of St. Mary's and Pine Ridge Hospitals, February 10, was a huge success, with one of the largest crowds of the season in attendance. Mrs. Alfred G. Kay and Mrs. Ralph K. Robertson shared the general chairmanship for the affair.

Patrons for the Ball were: Mrs. Joseph M. Cudahy, Mrs. John J. White, Mrs. Paul Healy, Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Rea, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph F. Gunster, Mrs. Charles B. Wrightsman, Miss Joanna Fortune, Arthur Bradley Campbell, Mrs. Arthur Glasgow, Mr. and Mrs. James H. Hollingsworth, Col. and Mrs. LeRay Berdeau, Mrs. James H. Kennedy, Mrs. Briggs Cunningham, Count and Countess G. Di-Castaglona, Mrs. Margaret G. Miller, Jay Cisco, Mrs. Louis D. Beaumont, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas A. O'Gorman.

Mrs. Alexander D. B. Pratt, Mrs. J. Dinsmore Tew 2d, Mrs. H. S. Fabyan, Mrs. J. M. Schoonmaker, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Talbot Speer, Mrs. E. Horton Glover, Amory L. Haskell, Mrs. Ola Miller, Dr. A. E. Murphy, Miss Mae Andrews, Mrs. J. F. A. Comstedt, Mr. and Mrs. Page Hufty, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Frank Black, Mr. and Mrs. John S. Tanner, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Sullivan, W. Terry Gibson, Princess Laura Rospigliosi, Mrs. Clegg Munroe, Commander Dwight Paul, Mrs. K. Rogers Denckla, Jeremiah Maguire and Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Lovejoy Durland.

The George Washington Birthday dinner-dance was another highlight in the social events of the month; held in the Orange Gardens with a capacity attendance. Instead of the usual fashion show which has been featured at this event in the past, an entertaining program of vaudeville was arranged. A veritable fashion show was staged however, in the smart and colorful costumes of the feminine guests . . . lavish dinner and ball gowns, aglitter with jewels and glamourized with luxurious furs.

Sponsored by the Junior Committee, was the Valentine Party for the younger set on February 16, in the Marble Patio of the Club. It comprised a dinner and dancing to the music of the Everglades Club Orchestra until the wee hours of the morning.

The Wednesday Tombola-luncheon-fashion shows always attract a large crowd, especially members of the distaff side. Starting in January, they have all been exciting and interesting, but the two most unusual were the men's style presental and the children's fashion show with 68 society children as models, which was held February 14.

Bridge, Canasta and Backgammon tournaments are weekly events at the Everglades, with Canasta gaining in popularity continuously. The majority of members entertaining guests at dinner, preceding the games in the card room.

On nights when there are no special events at the Club proper, informal dining and dancing on the Golf Terrace, is the popular rendezvous for the smart young set. The dance floor here is new this season and dancing under the stars in this picturesque setting, is a memorable experience.

A conversation piece—Mr. and Mrs. Andre Embericos relaxing in the lounge of El Morocco,

New York

Dear Dora:

GLAMOROUS ELEANOR CEDERHOLM CHURCH is quite emphatic about her decision to divorce Mayor Stanley W. Church despite his attempt to woo her back amidst the exotic decor of El Morocco.

Socialite Richard Nesbitt remarked "Stanley made no bones about it. He was determined to have her back and told her so. He came right out and told her he loved her—a couple of times." His ex-model wife was completely unmoved and said it was strictly a business date, exclaiming: "We wanted to come to some agreement, but the only solution was reached by me. I told him I want a divorce."

You remember Nino lo Savio when he was in Palm Beach several winters ago houseguesting it with Bert and Olive Taylor. Today poor Nino is in the hospital where he is suffering a severe case of arthritis. His ex, Betty Field lo Savio, they say, is wild about Kenneth Lindsay, the British lecturer.

Everyone in society from Bar Harbor to Key West is talking about the last minute call-off of the wedding between Alexander "Budsie" Cochrane and Gwenn Ellis. The inside story is that Budsie was given the gate at the last minute and told by Gwenn's father he could give up hope after he learned of Budsie's torrid romance with a Chicago singer. He was formerly married to Ambassador James Dunn's daughter, Cynthia.

Lovely Lorinda Payson, daughter of the Charles Shipman Paysons of the Hoke Sound winter colony will walk to the altar June 14 when she marries Vincent William de Roulete. Tuckie French Astor is now at Beverly Hills as the guest of Doug and Mary Lee Fairbanks. Prior to her departure Tuckie was seen with Serge Obolensky, Beverly Bogert and Craig Mitchell. The glamorous Tuckie is really mystifying Gotham and Newport society.

The other night at the Colony the Duchess of Windsor, who should be heading your way soon, arrived with Jessie Donahue and Margaret Duke and to the surprise of patrons of the fashionable restaurant, came with a string orchestra of their own and sat in the back of the room all evening listening to music.

I've heard rumors that Charles Blevins Davis, who inherited millions from his late wife, is anxious to produce a play which would star, of all people, Margaret Truman.

Did anyone tell you of the former glamour deb, originally a blonde, who fooled all her friends the other night at the Pierre where she arrived as a ravishing brunette. So completely different did my friend look that even her closest buddys didn't recognize her.

David Hearfield 4th of San Francisco has filed suit against his five-times-married Olivia, charging extreme cruelty. Olivia has carried the surnames Pillsbury, de Ropp, Gibson, Tubbs and Graham before marrying the very social David. It seems to me she and Arline Judge are running neck to neck in the marriage race.

When the Shah of Iran married recently the lovely 18-year-old Soraya, half Iranian and half German, and the daughter of a wealthy tribal chieftain, it was like a setting from the Arabian nights. Many gifts were sent to the couple upon announcement of their engagement. President Truman sent a Steuben glass crystal vase; the gift of King George IV of Britain was a Georgian style solid silver candelabra, Premier Stalin reportedly sent a long sable coat. Among the guests who attended the wedding were Princess Ali Kahn, the former Rita Hayworth and Prince Ali Kahn; his father, the Aga Kahn and the Aga's French wife, the Begum. Others there were the Sha's sister, Princess Fatimah, and her American husband, Vincent Lee Hill Hillyer. The couple met in 1948 in Paris at a dance.

One of the most fantastic fetes was held recently aboard the S. S. Independence for the benefit of the Metropolitan Opera Fund. Danny Kaye entertained and there was marvelous music by Emile Coleman's orchestra. Mrs. Lawrence Tibbett, who was chairman of the gala, told us that the fund raised more than $20,000. The money is to be given to George A. Sloan, chairman of the board of directors, and will meet the needs of the current coming year.

Among society's upper crust who attended were Lord and Lady Adare, John E. Slater, Princess Andree Aga Kahn, Mrs. Herbert Witherspoon, Mrs. Irving Berlin, Mr. and Mrs. Lytle Hull, Mrs. Carroll Carstairs, Ilka Chase, the Byron Foys, Mr. and Mrs. George U. Harris, Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Oakley Rhinelander, Mr. and Mrs. William Woodward, Jr., Miss Eleanor Steber, Miss Patricia Munsell, Herbert Klotz, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Luce, Elsa Maxwell, the John Barry Ryans, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Talbott, Prince and Princess Alexis Zalstem-Zalessky, Miss Bidu Sayao, Mrs. Clarence H. Mackay, Miss Lucrezia Bori, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. Thompson and the Gilbert Kahns.

Lunching at the Colony the other day was Elsa Maxwell, who entertained Mrs. J. C. Crowdin, Mrs. Thomas Phipps, Mrs. Gilbert Miller, Mrs. Charles Amory, Mrs. Anthony A. Bliss, Beatrice Straight, Mrs. Albert Rupp, Barbara Ashley, Mrs. Palmer Dixon, Nancy Kelly, Celeste Holm, Patricia Gillette, Carol Channing, Brenda Kelley, Vivian Blaine, Mrs. Julian Chaqueneau, Isabel Bigley and Margaret Phipps. It was a marvelous combination of society and the theater, and a huge success. Only the fantastic Elsa could entertain so amusingly.

A friend recently came from London and told me that Lady Isobel Violet Kathleen Guiness was granted a divorce from her airman husband on the grounds that he misconducted himself with a princess. The woman in question is Princess Gloria Fachiri, and the couple had their rendezvous at Versailles. Lady Isobel was formerly Lady Isobel Manners, lovely daughter of the ninth Duke of Rutland. She and group Capt. Thomas Loel Evelyn Guiness were married in 1936.

Did you know that Glenn Davis, the former West Point All-American football star, who at one time was engaged to Elizabeth Taylor, was wedded to film Actress Terry Moore recently at the Church of the Latter Day Saints at Glendale, Calif. The couple left immediately for their honeymoon in Mexico City and Acapulco. It was a quite ceremony with only members of the two families attending.

All for now, Dora,

Love,

Under the Stars

Maintaining the same high standard of fine food, good entertainment and excellent music that has made it a favorite night spot in Palm Beach for 24 years, the Patio Restaurant at Sunset and County Road continues to click this season, with the elite of the social, business and sports worlds among its well-pleased patrons.

The Patio is just as busy these days as was indicated on its opening night for the 1951 winter season. At the Patio there is never a let-down in entertainment, fine food and large reservation lists.

Entertainment is in the true French cafe style, featuring Maestro Val Ernie's band for dancing, his seven violinists who stroll about the tables playing requests for the patrons, and Miss Hazel Lenington at the console.

Recent hosts and revelers dining, wining at the Palm Beach club of clubs included: Mr. and Mrs. Jack Chrysler, hosts to a party of 10 that included Mrs. Walter Gubelmann and Mrs. John Jacob Astor.

Mr. and Mrs. John R. Fell, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Ford, 2nd, Mrs. Lorella Hearst, Mr. Van Gerbic and Mr. Earl E. T. Smith also dined and danced at the Patio recently.

Seated together were: Mr. and Mrs. James P. Guenane, Mr. and Mrs. David Legget 3d, and Mr. and Mrs. William Frolich and Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Goodwin.

Others noted: Mr. Ralph A. Porter with a party of 10, Mr. W. Halpern entertaining a group of 13, Miss Ingrid Dale with Mr. Woolworth Donahue, Mr. Jeremiah Maguire with three in his party, Mr. and Mrs. John Small with eight in the group, Mr. Christopher Dunphy with a party of eight, Mr. W. Buhl, Mr. Oscar Seebass, Count Jose Dorelis, Mr. and Mrs. Markham Langham.

FOR FOOD, ENTERTAINMENT AND DANCING, the Music Box, new in every meaning of the word, has become the most popular spot along Worth Avenue. Justly famous for its fine Cantonese and American cuisine, the new club in its oriental splendor has become the spot to see and be seen.

Presented nightly are: Gigi Durston, Cafe Society's No. 1 singing star; the Mary Wood Trio, entertaining with your favorite tunes; Peter Carew, with his sophisticated songs and piano, and Fred Witmer at the piano for "Cocktail time."

Recently enjoying this Palm Beach atmosphere were: Mr. and Mrs. J. Patrick Lannan and their daughter, Mrs. Frank C. Lawler; Mr. and Mrs. Edward Kelly who entertained a group of their friends at dinner; Mr. Earl E. T. Smith and Mr. Theodore Bassett; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Veazey Rainwater, Jr., who were dinner hosts to Mrs. Raymond Risien and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Paulson; Mr. and Mrs. D. Joseph Donovan who entertained Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Prosser; Mr. and Mrs. Paul Fentress, Jr., dined with Mr. and Mrs. George Blabon, 2d, Mr. and Mrs. H. Dickinson and Mrs. George Beach, Jr.

Others there were: Mr. and Mrs. Phil Harding, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lansdale, Mr. Gurnee Munn, Mrs. John Jacob Astor and Mrs. Walter S. Gubelmann.

This year for the first time the Miramar Restaurant on North Dixie Highway at 14th Street is opening for cocktails and luncheon at 12 noon. Colonists may drop in as late as 3 in the afternoon and be served. Ideal for these daily events is the outdoor dining pavilion with its colorful bouganville vines, flowers and plants. Resorters are finding the Miramar the perfect solution to the question, "Where shall we lunch"? Superb cuisine, a central location and a secluded setting all blend to make the Miramar ideal.

Gene Murray, Palm Beach's favorite pianist, is at the piano nightly, and George Fabri, the strolling violinist, entertain in their own inimitable way. Their repertoire includes romantic ballads from France and Italy, and also the well known hit tunes from Broadway shows as well as sophisticated favorites.

At the Miramar were: Mr. John Faris Jelke, his daughter, Mrs. Michael Brody and his sons, John F. Jelke 3d, and Charles Clarke Jelke.

In another group were: Mr. and Mrs. J. Edward Farrar, Mr. and Mrs. Stuyvesant Peabody Jr., Mrs. Stuyvesant Peabody, Mrs. Columbus Healy and Mr. Patrick Healy.

Count and Countess Jean de la Valdene and Prince and Princess Alexis Obolensky were together.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph L. Werner were with Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Wilson, and in another group were: Mr. and Mrs. Henry I. Barbey and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Mitchell Van Husan.

Others noted at the popular bistro were: Mr. Herbert Pulitzer Jr., Mr. and Mrs. George E. Vigouroux Jr., Mrs. Isabelle M. O'Brien, Miss Clara Floyer Glover, Mr. and Mrs. John R. A typical scene on the public beach on a warm winter day. Hundreds of people, bent on soaking up sunshine or doing a little swimming or just wading, flock to the ocean's edge as beautiful white clouds roll in with the waves. One of the most popular pastimes in the Palm Beaches, both winter and summer, is fishing. And one of the favorite haunts of the angler is the Palm Beach Pier, where daily hundreds of fishermen and fisherwomen dip their baited hooks over the railing to see what they can catch. This pier offers pompano, mackerel, blues, kingfish and snapper, as well as barracuda, grouper, mutton fish and sharks plus blue runners, croakers and some whiting. Here, Aunt Cora Munn fishes through the pier deck as several interested spectators watch. She, along with Grandma Hastings do their fishing through a drain hole in the concrete deck.

MISS POLLY RILEY, from Fort Worth, Tex., furnished Palm Beach colonists and visitors spectator sports interest during the first week of February by winning the Women's Championship of Palm Beach golf tournament on the Breakers course.

Every day, from the qualifying round when Miss Edean Anderson of Helena, Mont., carried off medalist honors with a one-over-women's-par 73 until the closing round, large crowds gathered at the greens near County Road and followed their favorites over the beautiful fairways of the Palm Beach Golf Club.

The Golf Club course is a favorite of the galleryite, for with very little effort he can see any number of matches on as many as nine or ten greens. All he has to do is walk back and forth across the street, and in the length of a couple of blocks he can watch the play on nine greens. And crossing the busy thoroughfare that bisects the course is not at all difficult, for policemen are stationed at each of the crossings to stop traffic for the pedestrians.

Edean Anderson, from Helena, Mont., won the early gallery by carrying off medalist honors with a one-overwomen's-par 73. She canned a 30-foot putt for a birdie on No. 3, a 25-footer for another birdie on nine, and one of 20 feet for a birdie 2 on No. 12. She had five birdies in all, getting them on every third hole until the 18th, when she was short of the green on her second shot and required two putts.

Miss Riley showed that she was going all out for the Palm Beach title that had evaded her for five years (twice she had lost in the finals to Peggy Kirk) when she posted a 75 for the qualifying round. Altogether, there were five girls under 80. Marjorie Lindsay shot a 77, Grace DeMoss had a 78 and Betty MacKinnon, the runnerup, came in with a 79.

Winds as great as 50 miles an hour were recorded at Palm Beach International Airport on the first day of match play, and the contestants were bothered a lot.

There were 32 players starting in the championship flight and 16 of them were eliminated the first day. The first round saw Edean Anderson beat Evelyn Odom, 2 and 1; Marjorie Burns beat Pat Devany, 1 up; Betty MacKinnon beat Virginia Doyle, 6 and 4; Bonnie Randolph beat Mrs. George Bilowick, 7 and 6; Marjorie Lindsay beat Joan Wassel, 7 and 6; Mary Ann Downey beat Elizabeth Ridge, 2 up; Mrs. Harold Stone beat Mrs. Sophie Untermeyer, 2 and 1; Marnie Polk beat Judy Baker, 1 up; Polly Riley beat Bobbie Dawson, 6 and 5; Mrs. H. O. Breault beat Jean Hopkins, 2 and 1; Catherine Fox Park beat Mrs. Charles Harbough, 5 and 3; Mrs. Maurice Glick beat Ellen Gery, 2 and 1; Grace DeMoss beat Carol Diringer, 1 up on 19 holes; Katherine McKinnon beat Mrs. George Wilcox, 2 and 1; Mary Agnes Wall beat Ann White, 9 and 8, and Bea McWane beat Betsy Aawls, 2 up.

Then came the second round, and the first real upset was when 18-year-old Katherine McKinnon of Lake Worth knocked off Grace DeMoss, the Oregon girl who in 1949 won the Canadian Women's Amateur crown. The margin was 5 and 3. In other second rounders, Anderson defeated Burns, 3 and 2; MacKinnon beat Randolph, 2 and 1; Downey defeated Lindsay, 1 up on 19; Polk beat Stone, 5 and 4; Riley defeated Breault, 7 and 6; Glick beat Park, 1 up, and Wall beat McWane, 4 and 3.

The girls played two matches that day, and in the quarterfinals MacKinnon beat medalist Anderson, 1 up; Downey beat Polk, 2 and 1; Riley beat Glick, 5 and 4, and Wall beat McKinnon, 5 and 3.

Polly Riley played 26 holes in those two matches on the same day and she was even with par at the end. The next day Polly played 16 holes in eliminating Miss Wall, 3 and 2, and she was one under par for as far as she went. She birdied the last three holes for the fine card. In the other portion of the semifinals, Katherine MacKinnon got past Miss Downey, 3 and 2.

Polly Riley played her best golf of the winter here in Palm Beach. She beat Miss MacKinnon, 2 and 1, getting the jump in the first half of the match when Betty was missing short putts. Riley was 4 up at the 10th, but from there on she didn't win a single hole. Betty had a 41 going out but was one under par coming back.

The first flight was won by Carol Diringer, 4 and 3 over Virginia Doyle; Grace DeMoss won the consolation, beating Marjorie Burns in the finals by 1 up on 19 holes; Minnie Lee Ashley took second flight honors with 1 up in 21 holes conquest of Mrs. I. W. Reeves, and Mrs. Trevor Howell won the third flight with a 2 and 1 victory over Mrs. F. H. Van Ness.

The smart Terrace Club of The Colony is attracting capacity crowds of discriminating Palm Beachers nightly. Featuring superb French and American cuisine which cause gourmets to exclaim in superlatives, the "little suppers" and "petite diners" are a conversation piece around the resort.

This rendezvous de l'elite is also a favored spot for aftertheatre and concert, or backgammon and canasta tournaments at the Club... for a bit of refreshing beverage and to catch the clever impromptu show by June Nelson, society chanteuse. From ten p. m. until two a. m. she entertains with her inimitable song styles and "fabulous chatter to music."

Patrons are talking about her sophisticated rendition of French songs, "cockney stories in song," impersonations, "dialect ditties" and ballads. Miss Nelson writes most of her material and this year introduced her latest ballad "When." Coming from a two and a half year engagement at the Oak Club in Chicago, she has also appeared at the Ambassador West's Buttery and the Barclay Club, also of Chicago.

Palm Beach Biltmore

COLORFUL PERSONALITIES in the national limelight have been lending their enchantment to the glitter of resort life at Dan Taylor's majestic and imposing Palm Beach Biltmore hotel with its magnificent and unobstructed panoramic view of the broad blue Atlantic and sparkling waters of Lake Worth where myriads of sleek white yachts play back and forth through this intra-coastal waterway to the South.

Miss Jacqueline Cochran, world's most famous aviatrix and head of three of the country's great cosmetic houses, led the list of interesting feminine personalities this month at the Biltmore hotel. Miss Cochran is the only woman aviator to receive the coveted Harmon Aviation award four consecutive times. For the period of 1940 to 1950 she was one of three flyers in the United States to be presented with the Harmon Trophy. Sharing honors with Miss Cochran were such notables as General Jimmy Doolittle and Admiral Rosenthal. Eberhard Anheuser of St. Louis, Missouri, president of the largest brewing company in the world and Mrs. Anheuser are at the Biltmore hotel for their annual southern hegira. Boston's well known Fire Commissioner E. H. Kelleher and Mrs. Kelleher are other Biltmore hotel "returnees."

A prominent group of Chicagoans who annually reserve an entire wing of the Biltmore for their two week's holiday arrived at the Biltmore hotel this week. All ardent golfers, they stage their own private golf tournament amongst themselves. Included in the group of niblick wielders are: Sterling Peacock, vice-president of N. W. Ayer; Lloyd Nicely and Graham McCorckle. Mr. McCorckle is chairman of the Illinois Bell Telephone System. Also: Fred Jenson, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Holland, Dr. and Mrs. H. A. Quint of Evanston, Jerry Ungaro and William Otter. Mr. Ungaro is chief legal counsel and vice-president of the Magnavox Company.

Huge red hearts, life sized cupids, bows and arrows and a profusion of little hearts and cupids in the traditional red and white Valentine decorative scheme transformed the Biltmore's Tropical Terrace into a land of romance when nearly 800 resorters made merry at the magnificent St. Valentine's Day Ball, on the starry moonlit night of February 14th. February 22nd, witnessed another great gala when George Washington's birthday was celebrated in true patriotic style with the colors of the red, white and blue and miniature cherry trees competing with Florida's lush tropical foliage.

The West India Room of the Biltmore hotel which has attained the reputation of the leading "after-dark fun rendezvous" of Palm Beach, has designated Mondays as "Rhumba Night," "Wednesdays as "Waltz Night" and Fridays as "Champagne Night" under the direction of Bob Dean, master of ceremonies. Alfred Taylor, brother of Palm Beach Biltmore owner Dan Taylor, is at the Biltmore with Mrs. Taylor for their annual southern holiday and other Virginians are: Mr. and Mrs. Claude Everett, Bayside, and Mr. and Mrs. D. Y. Malbon of Ocean, all of whom entertain frequently in the West India Room.

The Biltmore yacht moorings again jam packed with some of the nation's finest and most luxurious yachts finds many members of the yachting contingent on interesting cruises. Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Hynes of Davenport Neck, New Rochelle, whose yacht the "Graceful III" is berthed at the Biltmore for the season, have been enjoying a leisurely cruise to the West Indies. The C. A. Lynchs' of Evansville, Indiana, with their yachting guest Mrs. B. Frank Bridges of Calgary, Canada, aboard the sparkling blue and white "Mistress" enjoy frequent fishing cruises to the Bahamian waters. The Lynchs' are also in port for the season.

"Jerseyites" have always favored the Palm Beach Biltmore hotel, so ably directed by James J. Farrell who is also at the helm of the Monmouth Hotel in Spring Lake, New Jersey, and here for another season are: Mr. and Mrs. Edward Dillon of West Orange, Mrs. Herman Atherley of Nutley, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lang of Chatham, John G. Henderson of South Orange, with daughters Mary and Anita, and Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Horn of Newark. The Horns are at the Biltmore for their honeymoon. Mrs. Horn is the former Ann Farrell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Farrell. Mr. Farrell is the editor of the Newark Evening News. New Jersey state Senator and Mrs. John E. Toolan of Fairhaven, are also members of the New Jersey colony.

Meanwhile a full round of sports and social activities enliven daytime and evening hours at the Biltmore hotel with weekly movies, square dances, card parties, galas, aquatic meets, tennis, putting and shuffleboard tournaments. Louella internationally known chirognomist who has analyzed the palms of many noted personages is a daily attraction at the Biltmore and evenings Gene Towne, hand-writing analyst, can be found in the West India Room.

A record number of reservations have been received for March, one of Florida's most beautiful months—thus Palm Beach and the Biltmore Hotel continue to be synonymous to those seeking the ultimate in a tropical holiday.

The beautiful Tropical Room in the Palm Beach Biltmore is a delightful setting for many dinner parties.

Whitehall

There is contained herein excerpts from material on the life of Henry M. Flagler who built Whitehall and is the third in a series of stories concerning the Florida tycoon which Whitehall guests have indicated a desire to know more of.

Harrison Williams, noted American industrialist who is wintering in Palm Beach this season is pictured here on the Palm Beach Country Club golf course where he is a frequent player. The beautiful club of rolling fairways and smooth, well kept greens is maintained by Whitehall for the golfing pleasure of its guests and Cottage Colony members.

The fabulous founder of Whitehall who built his Palm Beach home to compare favorably with the great and important hotels he caused to be erected in Florida—at St. Augustine, Miami, Ormond, Jacksonville, and of course Palm Beach where for a half century the Royal Poinciana had no rival in resort hotels—never set foot in Florida until 1877.

The Standard Oil Company which he had joined with John D. Rockefeller was doing better than one-tenth of all the petroleum business in the United States and was the biggest business concern in the country when Mr. Flagler made the first trip to Florida with his ailing wife.

It was after the Flaglers had moved to New York, destined to become headquarters for the oil concern, that Mrs. Flagler was advised by her physician to spend part of each winter in Florida. The future owner of Whitehall accompanied her on their first and Mrs. Flagler's only trip in 1877 and because of lack of transportation they went no further than Jacksonville where Flagler with his alert powers of observation noted the need for adequate hotel facilities.

Then the following year when it was again suggested that the first Mrs. Flagler go South for her health, her moneymaking husband found it inconvenient to make the trip and urged her to go alone or with their children. But Mrs. Flagler refused to make the trip without him. Her condition grew steadily worse as the years passed and in 1881 she died.

Two years later Flagler remarried. His bride, a Miss Ida Alice Shourds, was also the daughter of a minister like Flagler himself. But she had been brought up in much more meagre style and once realizing that with her new husband went an almost unlimited bank account, she forthwith went on a wild spending spree, working hard at being the wife of a millionaire.

The couple spent their honeymoon—a belated one in 1883, (again because business interfered with the master's plans), in Florida. Flagler was now fifty-three years old. He was worth between ten and twenty million dollars and was ready to retire from his strenuous labors.

But he was intrigued again with the idea of seeing fine hotel accommodations brought to the South just as he had when he made the first trip with the mother of his children. There were dormant possibilities in the sleepy southland which were not obvious to short-sighted men but to one of Flagler's acumen, stood forth boldly.

Thus although Flagler returned North later in 1883, he did not forget the project he had in mind to build a hotel in St. Augustine and in 1885 architects and contractors were instructed to begin the program of erecting the mammoth structure covering a five-acre lot to be known as the Ponce de Leon Hotel.

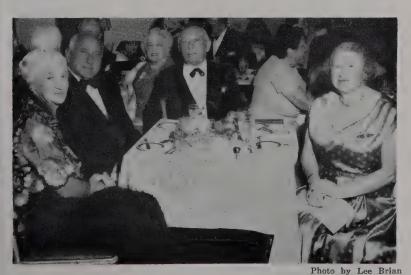

Whitehall, the splendid mansion that today is tops on the list of great southern resort hotels did not come into existence until some fifteen or sixteen years later. But it too, when completed, was featured in newspapers the country over and abroad as well as one of America's great villas.

It is interesting too, to note, that the hotel, born in an era of excitement and plenty maintains such standards today. A magnificent structure that cannot be compared with regulation hotel architecture, Whitehall has been preserved in its elegance while losing nothing in a generously equipped hostelry for Palm Beach winter visitors.

Like a fine old English estate, or one of the broad, expansive plantations of pre-Civil War days, in conjunction with its luxurious furnishings, its stateliness, Whitehall provides a program for beneficient holiday fun that few hotels can boast. Besides the mansion with its evening affairs its dances with one of the best bands in the land providing music—Ruby Newman and his master musicians; its smart night spot entertainment in Jardin Royale twice weekly, its scintillating cocktail lounge where dancing before dinner and during the cocktail hour is an every-day affair, Whitehall maintains two outstanding clubs, the envy of Florida specialty clubs—the Sun and Surf and Palm Beach Country Club.

The Sun and Surf is nestled close to the sea with roomy cabanas and sumptuous sun decks—a veritable village with its own swimming pool, fine tennis courts, a chummy clubhouse, and for outdoor dining a palm patio with huge open fireplace to produce broiled and delectable morsels, and when the sun is high and warm, great umbrellas to cover your cozy-corner table while lunching.

Equally popular and zealously sought admission to by those who know the superb in golfing accommodations, the Palm Beach Country Club provides an 18-hole golf course that is a challenge to even the most accomplished weilder of brassie and niblick.

HUGE DELEGATION OF PALM BEACH HOTEL guests headed by Mrs. Sandra Berle visited the Palm Beach Kennel Club the first of this month to witness the Palm Beach Hotel Handicap which was the feature of the racing card. Mrs. Berle highlighted the exciting evening when she presented an award to the owner of the winning dog.

The mother of America's No. 1 television star viewed the races in the company of a great number of Palm Beach Hotel guests from the Club House, a rendezvous of Palm Beach colonists. Prior to the tenth and featured race, the track announcer informed the audience that Mrs. Berle would make the award at the conclusion of the race. It was a tribute to the gracious Mrs. Berle that after the running of the Handicap no one seemed to move toward the exit gates.

Mrs. Berle proceeded to the center portion of the track where she was greeted by various club officials and introduced to the audience. She gently stroked the back of Banshee, the winning dog, awarded a silver serving dish to Mr. M. J. Gavan and said a few words to the audience. The large crowd expressed its appreciation with generous and sincere applause.

Thursday, Feb. 8th, Beatrice Morgan and Koff Furs, Inc., of 235 Worth Avenue, presented a fashion show in the West Patio of the Palm Beach Hotel. Beatrice Morgan, famous for her collection of fine hand-knit garments, and Koff Furs, equally well known for their original furs, pooled their resources in this presentation. Displayed were original Bea Magnus hand-knit fashions, dresses ranging from shantungs and cottons to evening outfits which pleased the most demanding. Madeleine Avedian, manager of the Beatrice Morgan Shop on Worth Avenue, acted as commentator and Dick Gasparre and his society orchestra created the musical settings for the occasion.

Mrs. Sandra Berle, mother of star comedian Milton Berle, and her sister, Mrs. M.

Cohen, have arrived for a season-stay at the Palm Beach Hotel.

Dick Gasparre, popular maestro, and his famous society orchestra can be heard six nights a week at the Palm Beach Hotel.

The Elegant Old

Ball Gurnee, a Palm Beacher of old who now plans to spend much of her time in the resort.

French Directoire and Monterey in the modern manner abounding in this charming villa presented the chief attraction to the new owner who has visited and lived abroad extensively over a period of many years.

Quiet, dignified and elegant, the furnishings of this home allow nothing to be detracted from the flamboyant and luxuriant tropical foliage that abounds in gardens and patio round which the villa is constructed. Pictured here are photos of the generous court round which family life in the tropics has centered for many years, and several interior scenes showing rare and cherished pieces of furniture.

Note the fireside with its unusual fireside bench which belonged to Miss Gurnee's father, and reveals New England origin in simplicity and strength. Miss Gurnee when not in Palm Beach or traveling resides at her chalet at Hulls Cove, Maine.

Note the very fine Spanish vargueno at left in the photo of the Gurnee living room pictured here, and at right a French cabinet probably of Louis XIV period with plaques of brass, and after the manner of the Chinese etched with lions, rams, stags and monsters of mythology in infinite symmetry.

An original vargueno, the huge front hinges downward to form a writing desk when opened. Behind is a multitude of little-doored cabinets and drawers inlaid with ivory and tortoise shell. Red velvet covers the front overlaid with pierced lozenge-shaped plaques, and minute carving and intricate designs colored blue and coral create a Spanish interior piece of extraordinary elegance.

The magnificent French cabinet, probably about 1700, expresses the ornate, massive richness of the reign of Louis XIV when contact with China had been reestablished and every house had its plethora of Chinese furniture and ornamentation.

Louis XIV was extremely proud of his Chinese cabinets, the most notable of which had 10 silver plaques representing the labors of Hercules, and surely Miss Gurnee may well be proud of hers with its suitable touches of a voluptuous period.

Conversation pieces in this Palm Beacher's home are many and diversified . . . as interesting and colorful as a matter of fact as the career of the owner of the house. Residing in Washington 16 years, where she was chairman of the National Prohibition Reform working with Mrs. Pauline Morton Sabin, the first meeting to oust the Volstead Act was held in Miss Gurnee's apartment.

Bringing to Palm Beach many beautiful art objects and furnishings that formerly adorned her Washington home, and a great many including the two chests pictured here from the apartment of a favorite aunt in Paris, she is even now still in process of achieving a delightful homey setting quite apart and opposite to the highly theatrical effect induced by the Florida boom of 1925.

FOR SALE AT PALM BEACH

"Il Palmetto," the Fabulous Widener Estate

"Il Palmetto," the former 6-1/3-acre estate of the late Joseph E. Widener, represents one of the fabulous bargains in current realty offerings to the buyer who seeks the last word in fine construction and luxurious appointments.

Over $1,000,000 was spent on the magnificent 15th Century Italian mansion, its estate buildings and grounds, and perfectly protected beach. The tremendous living room with picture windows overlooking both the ocean and Lake Worth is but one of the many interior features of this ultra-luxurious residence, which has 9 master bedrooms, each with bath. Recreational facilities include a tiled 60x30-ft.swimming pool and a fenced-in tennis court. Among the estate buildings are a 6-car garage and an ocean-front beach house.

Offered at a fraction of its cost. For details call or write for illustrated brochure No. 43115
